

The Princess and the Pauper (Arabella)

Chapter 892

Chapter 892

"Hmm, these are just like the ones installed in your house. They're not the latest models, but they'll do for eavesdropping."

"Why would they be watching us?"

Taylor thought to herself, no wonder her husband had felt something amiss about the house a few times before. She had initially dismissed his concerns, but at that point it seemed that their house had been invaded multiple times, and cameras and bugs had been installed!

The mere thought of it sent chills down her spine.

Arabella pulled out a tiny button, indistinguishable from the real one unless inspected closely.

Not only Logan and Taylor, but even Clark was also surprised by that. He didn't expect his sister to carry such gadgets around.

Arabella had come there with the intention of investigating Carol's whereabouts, so her small backpack was filled with various devices.

"But our arrival here must have been captured on camera, though the audio would be disrupted. They can't hear us, but they can see us."

"So, this place isn't safe anymore?" Taylor was worried.

Nodding, Arabella said, "Pack your stuff. We need to leave as soon as possible."

"Arabella mentioned earlier that Carol didn't come to Lidaria.

There's no point in us staying here. We should pack up and leave with them,' Taylor discussed with her husband.

She was wary of those people. After all, they were ruthless and skilled.

Logan nodded, and they both went to pack.

Arabella took out her phone again, pulled up Jerry's WhatsApp she had added earlier, and asked him to book a room at a hotel owned by McMllian Corporation. It was relatively safer than this place.

"Bella, I don't know how to thank you."

With the investigation reaching that point, his sister was the unsung hero, but Clark was also worried about bringing danger upon her.

"I'm just looking for my sister-in-law. It's my duty."

Carol was a part of that family. It was her responsibility to find her if she was missing.

"Aren't you worried that you might not get along with your future sister-in-law?"

After all, Arabella hadn't met Carol yet and didn't know what kind of person she was.

"It doesn't matter. As long as you're happy with her."

Arabella wasn't one for sweet talk, but if Clark had chosen Carol, her character obviously couldn't be too bad. So, she wasn't worried about it.

Even if both she and Carol were aloof and didn't have much to talk about, if Clark was happy, that was enough.

Suddenly, there was a strange noise from the bedroom, and Taylor instinctively screamed, "Arabella!"

Realizing something was wrong, Arabella exchanged a glance with Clark and immediately rushed into the room.

Inside, a masked man in black was covering Taylor's mouth. Logan was struggling with another black-clad man.

Seeing that, Arabella tried to kick the man in black by Mr. Earwood aside. The man in black knew that she was no ordinary girl. He dodged her kick, not wanting to waste time with Mr. Earwood and focused on dealing with Arabella.

Clark went to rescue Mrs. Earwood. As he struggled with the man in black, Taylor was trembling with fear.

Logan told Taylor to hide by the nightstand, grabbed the lamp on it, and smashed it toward the man in black!