

Arabella 97

Chapter 97

“So, Ms. Bennett, you’ve already checked my attendance record. You should know I’ve been working my butt off all year round, never been late nor left early! I’m always the first one in and the last one out every day! My hard work is all reflected in that record! However, you fired me for no good reason! You better believe I’ll raise hell about this, make a complaint to headquarters, and make things hard for you here!” Linda said.

People outside the office were flabbergasted. Director Linda sure had a big mouth, daring to talk to Ms. Bennett like that. She was just bullying Ms. Bennett cause she was young!

They wonder if Ms. Bennett got scared.

Arabella looked at her casually, and slowly said, “Do you really believe what you just said?”

“You!” Linda immediately felt pissed, “What do you mean by that!”

not ask those people outside, how many days were you actually at the company this past that happened today to the head office. I’ll let you know what it costs to fire people randomly! You want me out? Ha, you’d better think about how to throwing out those harsh words, be reported to the head office. Otherwise, they wouldn’t you mean?” Linda turned back, glaring at her angrily, “Don’t make things system and found records that her, tapping a few keys with her slender head of HR, so you have the right to log into the attendance system to make alterations. Even though you tried you only worked for 78 days.” Everyone outside was shocked! Although they had noticed Linda missing work many times, they didn’t