

Arabella 1576

Chapter 1576

"Here's David's favorite in-ear monitor, you can use it for now," Jossie said as she helped her put it on. "And the mic, I've hidden the wire in your dress, okay? It's clipped tight, shouldn't fall."

"It's fine."

"Alright, then go get 'em, tiger! Don't be nervous, you've got one minute. Brush up on the lyrics while I give the crew some last-minute instructions."

Jossie relayed some information about the ocean-themed backdrop to the crew and reminded them to give Summer plenty of screen time, capturing her profile from a distance to avoid a close-up of her features.

Arabella stood atop the lift, unfazed, as if she were a seasoned singer merely going through the motions.

Having given her instructions, Jossie turned back to Arabella, "Got the lyrics down?"

"I do."

"All of them?" Jossie was surprised. Just a moment ago Arabella was in the audience, and here she was, ready to sing a song David had penned for his sister, filled with unique lines that Arabella had to nail halfway through.

through her earpiece, "Bella, about 10 seconds to go. You've got Arabella reassured her in did you know I was descent, Jossie's heart raced. She still hadn't fully processed of a music career; she was already a bigger star had even offered to help Arabella if she decided to

Ms. Kiki was worthy of that

The music started.

was the intro to David's final

She wasn't there. His eyes then darted to Romeo

[I've texted her. She should be here time I saw you, with your bright eyes, and your laugh so pure and clean. The thought of you being my sister to an oceanic scene,

erupted

The surprise guest had arrived!

It must be Merry!

Rumors had been swirling that it was the pop diva herself, and this youthful voice seemed to confirm it – it had to be Merry!

Even David looked pleasantly shocked, for the voice was uncannily like Arabella, his sister!

He never imagined that the way Summer called his name would hit him right in the feels. It was just too perfect.

"With such little age, comes such great courage, no storm too fierce for you to face." David sang another line.

From the beautiful underwater scene came the voice again, "David."

The fans screamed even louder. Now, even David's expression was one of utmost surprise and eagerness to meet this Summer, who had flawlessly mimicked his sister's voice not once, but twice.

It was unbelievably similar!