Chapter 1554

"You want me to do something?" Renee smiled mysteriously, then told Xavier, "If I were you, I'd seek justice for Leia whether or not it had anything to do with Shirley. Your beloved was humiliated, but instead of fighting for her, you wanted her to compromise. It means you don't love her at all."

"Renee, don't make this worse. Everyone handles things differently. Is it wise to create a bigger mess just for the sake of revenge?" Xavier did not expect such an answer from an open-minded person like Renee. Was she trying to make Xavier and Leia's relationship worse?

"You still don't understand." Renee shook her head and continued, "It's not about the outcome-it's about your attitude. It would upset any woman."

"I…" Xavier scratched his head, in a dilemma. Why did loving someone have to be so hard?

"Ren, you know me so well." Leia typed out, practically in tears as she hugged Renee. Only women understood such feelings; men would only find them pretentious. Leia couldn't stop crying, happy to be understood at last.

"Xavier, I'll tell you something on Lei's behalf. You still have the chance to make her forgive you in three days, but you have to figure out what to do. Just go… Lei, you should stay here tonight. I have so much to tell you!"

Leia nodded vigorously and held Renee's hand as they headed upstairs.

Both men stared at each other, dumbstruck. Stefan couldn't understand why his woman had left him when Xavier and Leia had been the ones arguing, and Xavier didn't know why Renee had become so unreasonable.

"Stefan, isn't Renee a busybody? It was just a small fight, but I feel like things got blown out of proportion after Renee meddled in it. How should I handle this?" Xavier complained, finding the situation quite unfair. He usually respected Renee a lot, but he was angry at her now.

"What do you know? If I were you, I would have thanked Renee for doing that. If not, it would have been over between you and Leia," Stefan scoffed. Stefan had more experience when it came to relationships, and he knew better than Xavier what women cared about. Yes, Xavier might have been thinking objectively, but it was a bad move if he was trying to impress his beloved. If Renee hadn't found a way out for Xavier, things would be over between him and Leia.

"I don't understand. What should I do now?" Xavier scratched his head manically. Why was it so troublesome to love someone?

"You shouldn't be asking me what to do-you should think about what Leia wants you to do. If you sincerely want her, you should always stand by her and put yourself in her shoes when doing things," Stefan told Xavier earnestly.
