

The Untouchable Ex-Wife

Chapter 1572

Stefan frowned and asked Jovan, "What do you want?" In his mind, all Jovan wanted was the right to rule Hunt Enterprise and be superior to Stefan. Timothy's offer had met those requirements, so Stefan couldn't figure out why Jovan would say reject it.

"I want your woman... Will you let me have her?" Jovan smiled teasingly as he asked.

Stefan stopped in his tracks, and an uncontrollable rage overwhelmed him. He punched Jovan in the face, sending him tumbling to the ground.

Jovan didn't retaliate, and just wiped away the blood on his lips. He stared at Stefan contemplatively, then sneered, "I won't fight you. I'll let you have Hunt Enterprise, but you have to give your woman to me. Can you do that?"

"How dare you say those words again!" Stefan's expression was livid. He wanted to punch Jovan again, but stopped himself, resorting to clenching his fists instead.

"If what I said makes you angry, then don't you understand how I could be angry when you and Grandpa offered me such a choice?" Jovan's gaze was icy as he asked.

"Renee and I are a couple, and we love each other. You shouldn't covet her since she's your cousin-in-law. Your brief entanglement with her has already crossed the line, so I'm warning you now-don't covet her, or I'll make you suffer," Stefan warned Jovan who was still seated on the ground. He knew Jovan had feelings for Renee, and they had even lived together briefly. Although Stefan knew that Renee did it to repay Jovan's sacrifices for him, he was still very upset by it, and would feel hurt when anyone brought it up. For nearly half a year, Renee and Jovan had left Beach City and went to live in an isolated land. No one knew what had happened or if they had grown to love each other after spending time together.

"You want to make me suffer?" Jovan got to his feet and said menacingly, "Yes, is my cousin-in-law, but she's also the woman I love. What's wrong with it since I love her and want her?"

"Shut up!" Stefan's body was tense as he stared at Jovan resentfully. "Take Hunt Enterprise if you want, but if you dare covet my wife, I'll fight you!"

"Go ahead! I'm not afraid. Our battle will come to an end one day, and I'll be happy as long as I have the chance to get her, " Jovan sneered, his smile wicked. Even the chance to be with Renee was considered a luxury to him because he'd never had that opportunity. He was glad that he'd made it clear to Stefan-they were officially competing for Renee's love now. Jovan smirked at Stefan and said provokingly, "If I were you, I would spend more time with her. After all, she needs you now, but who knows if she'll still need you in the future..."

"What are you planning?" Stefan narrowed his eyes and approached Jovan. "What are you going to do to her?"

Jovan grinned at Stefan wolfishly. "Calm down, I would never harm my beloved... At most, I'll just make her mine."