

Read Novel | Married At First Sight Chapter 2855

Married At First Sight Chapter 2855-“Brother Kendrick, what can I do now?”

Knowing that Kendrick recognized him, Julian regarded Kendrick as a helper and couldn't help but ask Kendrick.

Kendrick said, “You can either stay here and watch or go back and help my mother cook. In short, you don't have to worry about what Kiera does. She will be back in the evening. After she comes back, you two will have a good talk. You just need to make her believe that you are serious about her and not joking.”

Julian said, “I will, thank you, brother, then I will go back and help Auntie cook.”

If the mother-in-law's route is smooth and successful, pursuing her wife will get twice the result with half the effort.

Kiera was either frightened by Julian's confession or she just didn't believe it. This was the first time she heard a man say he loved her.

She came out of the martial arts gym and blew in the cold wind. She shivered from the cold, and her mind became clear. She didn't hang out for long before she ran back home.

Fortunately, the martial arts gym was very close to home.

Mrs. Caron was preparing hot pot dishes for tonight.

On a cold day, eating hot pot was the most comfortable thing. If it weren't for the heating in the room, she wouldn't be able to stay.

When winter came, Mrs. Caron rarely went out. She let her children buy groceries. She was from the south and was afraid of the cold. Even though she had been married to Yonsburg for decades, she still liked to huddle in the winter.

Hearing the sound of the door opening, Mrs. Caron walked out and saw Kiera. She asked, “Isn't the get-out of class not over yet at this time? Why are you back? It must be snowing outside. There is hot ginger tea in the pot. Pour a bowl and drink it to drive away the cold.”

Mrs. Caron said that and went back to the kitchen.

“Why are you the only one coming back? Your brother and the others?”

While Mrs. Caron was busy, she didn't forget to ask Kiera.

Kiera replied, “I have something to do, so I'll be back first. Mom, where is dad?”

“Your dad went out and said that someone invited him to dinner. He didn't come home for dinner at night. He asked us to eat when it was ready. What do you want?”

Mrs. Caron turned to ask Kiera who came in.

Kiera hesitated and finally said sheepishly, “I didn't bring any sanitary pads with me, so I came back from getting off work early.”

Mrs. Caron: “Oh. But...didn't it just come here on the 10th? It's only the 25th, and you're here again?”

There were only two women in the family, mother and daughter, and Mrs. Caron knew Kiera's menstrual period.

She was also very concerned about it, especially when Kiera was in puberty. She was afraid that Kiera would not dare speak out because of shyness. She often reminded Kiera that if she feels uncomfortable or abnormal, she must tell her mother.

Kiera: “Maybe it's going to be chaotic this month. Mom, I'll go upstairs first.”

Afraid that Mrs. Caron would see through her lie, Kiera hurried upstairs.

She was in her room, closed the door, and was alone.

She lay down on the bed, looked at the ceiling, and murmured to herself, “Julian said he fell in love with me at first sight. His love for me is the same love a man has for a woman. He said he wanted to marry me. Why do I feel like I'm dreaming? I, Kiera, also have a man like me. He is still such an excellent CEO.”

Kiera herself didn't have many expectations for love. The main reason was that her mother arranged countless blind dates, all of which ended up being ignored. She said it didn't matter, but it actually had an impact on her, making her feel that she was bad and not suitable. As a wife, no man would really love her. They only treated her as a buddy.

Click to rate this post!
[Total: 20 Average: 4.7]

Married At First Sight Chapter 2856-They couldn't blame her for treating the men around her as buddies. They treated her as one of their buddies first, okay?

When she first met Julian, when she saw Julian, her heartbeat would speed up and she would have random thoughts. After they had known each other for a long time, they were no different from her fellow senior brothers when they got along with each other. When she was alone with Julian again, it felt natural. No more racing heartbeats, no more random thoughts.

She thought that she and Julian had a brotherly relationship, like buddies.

She didn't expect Julian to say that he loved her.

Kiera felt her face getting hot. She touched her face, patted it, and said to herself, "Kiera, are you shy? Did a man say he liked you, and you became elated? Calm down, calm down."

Julian would not worry about domestic violence in the future, like her blind date partners, because he was a very powerful person in boxing and kicking and could beat her elder brother.

She was no match for the elder brother.

Julian could defeat her eldest brother, which meant that his strength was higher than hers. What should he worry about? On the contrary, she should worry about it. If she gets into a fight or argument with Julian in the future, Julian might win and defeat her. The person who was pushed to the ground and rubbed hard.

Kiera sat up from the bed, sat in front of the dressing table, and looked at himself in the mirror.

Looking at it, she smiled and said confidently, "Sister, you are not ugly. Julian is discerning."

She just didn't know if she and Julian were suitable.

He was the boss of a big company, and his family was from a wealthy family. The people he came into contact with were either rich or noble. Although her Caron family was not poor either, in Yonsburg, the Caron family was among the rich. But compared with the Bucham family, they're too far apart.

Kiera was worried that Julian wanted her to be fresh and different from the other girls. Once the freshness wore off, he would like other women.

Men become bad when they have money, and women become rich when they become bad.

Julian was so rich and handsome, and when he treated someone well and showed his heart and soul, it was easy for a woman to be devoted to him.

Kiera's mood slowly calmed down.

She decided to take a look first and talk to her parents. Her parents had been here, and she had eaten more salt than she had eaten rice. If her parents believed in Julian and thought that Julian would not change his mind and thought that Julian was sincere, then she would safely fall in love with Julian.

Love that is predicated on marriage.

After all, it was rare for her to meet a man who was not afraid of domestic violence in the future.

She must always seize the opportunity. If she misses Julian, she will really be an old aunt for the rest of her life. She will be remembered by her old mother until her ears fall off.

"knock, knock, knock."

There was a knock on the door.

"Kiera, are you not feeling well yet? Are you okay?" Mrs. Caron brought a bowl of brown sugar and ginger water upstairs. "I have prepared brown sugar and ginger water for you; drink a bowl."

Kiera stood up and opened the door, saying, "Mom, the brown sugar and ginger water you made is so spicy. You may have used up all the ginger in the house."

After opening the door, she took the bowl of brown sugar and ginger water from her mother's hand.

She didn't even need to drink it; just smell the ginger, and she would know it's spicy.

No matter how much brown sugar was added, it would still bring out the spiciness of ginger.

Besides, Mrs. Caron didn't put in too much brown sugar.

"It's cold. Kiera, why don't you drink some ginger water? What's spicy? When you secretly eat spicy strips, I don't hear you say they're spicy. When you eat spicy beef jerky, when you eat sansho chicken feet, why didn't you say spicy?"

Kiera: "Okay, okay, I'll drink it; I don't like it spicy."

Facing her mother, Kiera had no choice but to surrender.

Everyone in her family except her mother had the surname Caron. However, her mother, who did not have the surname Caron, had a lot of power over everyone in the family who did.

Who said her father was a strict wife?

Click to rate this post!
[Total: 29 Average: 4]

