

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna Novel chapter 130

3 - 19 Second Alpha Meeting

Alpha Ulric called everyone in to start dinner. Everyone sat down at the table, and servers brought out the first course.

The triplets sat around Thea again. She could feel their possessiveness growing. She laughed to herself, wondering how they could think she could want anyone else.

"We want to jump right into preparations for what's to come," Alpha Ulric said as people ate. "As you know, we suspect something big is building. My Beta went out East to investigate the desolated packs. He found evidence of vampires, witches, and werewolves working together to annihilate entire packs. We need to be ready. I suggest everyone start stockpiling supplies. From food and medical supplies to information on fighting witches and vampires and training all your people to fight. If you need help in any area, we will assist you."

"I know some of you are afraid that your packs won't support your decision to join us, or you don't have warriors to put into a fight," Alaric said. "We will help you train warriors. We will help you get your packs prepared."

Thea felt Alpha Ledger and Alpha Stoll relax.

"You know, we each have different strengths and weaknesses," Alpha Sharpe said. "I think we could also talk about how we could help each other—all of us. Anyone has a problem, we can all pitch in—or whoever is best equipped. Share resources. Build each other up.”

“What about the more immediate problem of the packs that want their slaves back? There’s talk that they will go after New Dawn’s allies. Seems like a dangerous time to become an ally,” Alpha Tyler said. He was from Halo, a faraway pack.

“We won’t let that happen,” Alpha Ulric said. “We’re already working on how to take care of the problem. The important thing is getting everyone ready for the Great War. The more people and packs that are prepared, the better chance we all have of survival.”

“Why are you so convinced this thing back east will reach us?” Alpha Brown said. He was from Apogee, another faraway pack.

Thea mind linked Alpha Ulric. “Do you think I can trust them with my time with the goddess?”

“You tell me,” Alpha Ulric said to her in mind link. “These are the people that professed to support us. What do you feel from them?”

Thea felt into each Alpha. Most of them were already with New Dawn. The others wanted to be but had to cover their bases. None of them would do anything to hurt New Dawn.

“Alphas,” Thea said out loud. She stood up. “I know some of you are leary. You don’t want to risk your people. Some of you don’t feel prepared, don’t have enough warriors. Some of you just want to do your due diligence before committing yourself and your pack. If your beliefs and values align with ours, we will help you get ready. We will train you and your packs. Anything you need, we will help you. You will have access to all our resources, and as Alpha Sharpe suggested, not just ours. We want everyone to become true allies. We will all support each other. There is no other way for us to win the coming war. Make no mistake. There is a war coming for all of us."

Thea took a deep breath in.

"What I'm about to tell you," Thea said. "I need you to keep in this room."

The Alphas nodded and leaned forward in their seats.

"I spoke with the moon goddess. She told me there's a great evil growing, building forces. They want to enslave everyone and wipe out anyone who fights back. If they take us out one by one, we lose. If we band together, we have a chance. The goddess wants her good children to band together and win the war."

"Why should we believe that you talked to the goddess?" Alpha Tyler said. "We know you have power, but no one has talked with the goddess in ages."

There were murmurs of agreement from several Alphas. Thea felt Delta team, the triplets, her father, and Alpha Ulric take offense, their protective instincts flaring.

"How is it possible that so few of us remember our own history and lore?" Alpha Ford said above the din. "Don't you recognize her marks?"

All the Alphas looked at Alpha Ford in confusion, then to Thea, studying her three marks.

Thea and Alpha Ford made eye contact. They couldn't mind link, but she could read his thoughts and intentions, and he seemed to know that. He asked if she wanted him to tell the group. She nodded.

"The symbols in Luna Thea's marks say that the goddess chose her in this age to be her mouthpiece. For all intents and purposes, she's an avatar of the moon goddess." 1

Thea was as surprised as everyone else in the room. She only knew the goddess gifted her.

"That hasn't happened in thousands of years," Alpha Tyler said.

"Only when it's necessary does the goddess intervene," Alpha Ford said.

"How do you know this, Alpha Ford?" Alpha Brown said.

"You really should study our history," Alpha Ford said. "It's written on her skin. Why else would the goddess give her three powerful mates? The goddess needs her protected so she can fulfill her will. If you don't want to incur the goddess' wrath, I suggest you fall in line behind her chosen one."

The room was silent for a moment.

"I believe I can trust you with this information," Thea said, breaking the silence. "I believe you won't tell people who would want to hurt us. We mean it when we say we want to be allies. We want to help you get ready."

"You already have our allegiance," Alpha Sharpe said.

The other Alphas who already aligned themselves with New Dawn all nodded in agreement.

"I will follow you anywhere," Alpha Ford said. "My pack needs help in every way possible, but I pledge myself and my pack to you."

"And we pledge to help you," Kai said. He seemed to understand Alpha Ford wasn't talking to Thea because he wanted to get in her pants. He was a devout wolf.

The other Alphas looked at each other.

"We need help, but we'll stand with you," Alpha Ledger said.

"Same here," Alpha Stoll said.

"And we will help you," Alaric said. Thea felt the jealousy in him as he said it. He knew they needed to make allies, but he wouldn't let them hit on Thea.

"I need to tell you," Alpha Stoll said. "Alpha Jett of Crescent Moon contacted me and asked me to attend a meeting to talk about missing slaves and omegas—to band against you."

I declined.”

“I also was contacted by him and declined the offer,” Alpha Ledger said. “I didn’t pledge myself to you at the last meeting because I didn’t think my pack was ready to get involved, not because I didn’t want to. But there’s no way I’d ever pledge to join Crescent Moon.”

The other Alphas voiced their allegiance as well.

Alpha Ulric looked at Thea and smiled with pride.

“Go on. Lead,” he said to her in mind link. 3
