

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna Novel chapter 131

3 - 20 Go On, Lead

Thea started to make plans. She asked the Alphas to seek out other like-minded Alphas. She asked them to spread the viral warning. She told them to let New Dawn know what assistance they needed, and New Dawn would get it planned into their schedules. Other packs offered to help each other too. Soon, they were all conferring, making plans amongst themselves.

Eventually, dinner ended, and Delta team escorted the visiting Alphas out.

"Come back immediately," Thea mind linked them. "We need to discuss things."

"Yes, Luna."

The triplets were agitated. They wanted Thea to themselves.

"Alpha Jett is going to invite us to a summit with Crescent Moon and its allies," Thea said when Delta team was back. "It will be a trap."

"So we don't let them make their move first," Conri said.

"Are you suggesting we strike before they call the summit meeting?" Alaric said.

"What have you found out about the packs? Do you have the dossiers?" Thea said.

"Yes, Luna," Garrin said. "The short version is that they all have slaves and omegas that they don't treat well. They're scared. Varying numbers and skill levels of warriors."

They discussed options for a while. Thea felt Arella, Ophelia, and Cassandra calling out to her.

"Excuse me," Thea said. "I'll be right back."

Thea went to the girls' room, trailed by her Delta team guards. She knocked on their door.

"It's Luna Thea," she said.

Arella opened the door.

"We can help," Arella said.

Thea considered. "If I don't let you help, do good people get hurt?" Thea said.

Arella nodded.

"You want to help," Thea said. "We need to learn about these abilities you have. Sometimes it's dangerous for people with gifts. We have to be careful not to tell the wrong people. Do you understand?"

They nodded.

"Okay," Thea said. "Follow me."

They entered the ballroom a few minutes later. The men stopped talking and looked at Thea and the kids.

"You have to strike first," Cassandra said. "Or people get hurt."

"How?" Kai said.

"They invite you to talk with them," Ophelia said. "You're in a big room. Everyone there will attack you all. Our old Alpha has poison. He'll kill the Alphas and take you, Luna. You can't give them the chance."

"They would probably take you hostage to trade for the girls, knowing they can't take New Dawn by force," Alaric said.

Thea nodded. "So how do we attack them before the meeting?"

"No," Cassandra said. "You need to go to the meeting. That's when they'll all be together. You won't lose people that way."

"Are all Alpha Jett's allies there?"

"Yes."

"Of course, Alpha Jett would hide behind all the other Alphas. He knows he can't take any of us on himself," Conri said.

"What else, girls?" Thea said.

"Our old Alpha talks for a while," Arella said. "He gets madder and madder then attacks. You need to interrupt them before they attack, Luna, or it will be too late. You need to make it so they can't move."

"I need to paralyze all of them?" Thea said. The girls looked at her questioningly. "Paralyze means they can't move." They nodded. "I paralyze them, then what?"

"Take out their long teeth," Arella said, pointing to Thea's canines. 2

"Canines. They're called canines. Whose canines do we need to take?" Thea said.

"All of them," Cassandra said. "All the bad guys in the room."

Thea looked at the triplets, Alpha Ulric, her father, Delta team. "There's no way I can do that," she said. "I was unconscious from just Xavier getting his canines ripped out."

"If you paralyze them, we can take their canines all at once," Alaric said.

"It will be just one punch to the gut," Kai said.

"One punch? It'll be like getting hit by a bus. They'll see it take me out. They'll see my weakness," Thea said. "What if they tell people before they die? Everyone will know how to take me out."

"You can pretend you're okay," Ophelia said. "I saw it. You're strong."

Thea didn't look convinced.

"What's the plan after their canines are out?" Thea said. "

Leave them there? Take them back to their packs to die? I won't be able to function around them. Again, people will see how to take me out, or the Alphas will tell everyone in their packs."

"After their canines are out, we could snap their necks. They would die anyway, we'd just be speeding up the process," Alaric said. "They won't be able to tell anyone, and you should be fine then, right?"

"I was better once Xavier was dead, yeah," Thea said. It felt like they'd be murdering people in cold blood, unprovoked.

"They will kill you," Arella said. "You'll find the poison on him as proof."

Thea nodded. What did she think would happen? They'd choose to change and live peacefully? She knew this was a possibility. She had just convinced a room full of Alphas to prepare for a Great War. How could she lead them through that if she couldn't handle this?

"Why don't we just snap their necks?" Thea said.

"You need the power from their teeth," Arella said.

"They could take them after they snap their necks."

"They don't have the power then," Arella said. 1

Thea sighed. "So we take their canines, snap their necks, then what? Take their dead bodies back to their packs and announce that their packs are ours now?" Thea said.

"It looks like it won't just be Crescent Moon that we need to find a leader for," Kai said.

"Taking out the Alphas, we could give those packs to whoever we want. Maybe whatever allies we have that share a border with them," Conri said.

"Maybe we should call another meeting of Alphas. See how they want to do this," Alaric said.

"Don't tell anyone what's happening until after it's done," Cassandra said.

"You heard her," Kai said. "We don't want to tip off anyone that we know what's happening or that we have a plan for it."

"We don't talk about this to anyone," Alpha Ulric said. "We let them call the summit. We deal with them there. Then we start calling our allies. They may have suggestions on how to move forward. Let's focus on the summit, and we'll deal with the fallout after."

They talked plans for a while longer then wrapped up for the night.
