

The Charismatic Charlie Wade Chapter 3811

Badr, who is swaying in the Gulf of Aden, never dreamed that he would be killed so easily.

In Chen 's view, this kind of guy who can't get on the table can die under his hands, and it's good for him.

Afterwards, Chen gently put his body back on the bed.

Badr's body is still in a front-up posture, but his entire face has sunk into the pillow, revealing only the back of his head.

This kind of picture is a bit weird in the violation.

At this time, Chen took out a waterproof plastic cylinder from his arms, and took out a set of calligraphy written by Abbas himself. There were only eight words on it: "God blocks and God kill, Buddha blocks and Buddha kills."

This picture is a reminder that Wanlong Temple left to others in the pirate organization.

At this time, Chen quietly retired from the room, greeted the guards outside the door, and went to the beach where they had just landed.

The other five subordinates have also installed dozens of speedboats on the beach with remote-controlled bombs, and they can blow up all the pirates' ships by pressing a button.

One of the men handed Chen the remote-controlled detonation device. Chen looked at the brightly lit pirate base and gently pressed the detonation button.

A few seconds later, on the coastline of the pirate base, there was a series of explosions. Dozens of various speedboats burst out with huge flames, and some were even blown into the air.

With the sound of intensive explosions, the entire coastline ignited a raging fire.

These speedboats had just been filled with fuel by the pirates, and they were preparing to set off tomorrow morning to encircle and suppress the freighter of Yisu Shipping. The full fuel was instantly ignited by an explosion, and the fire seemed to have formed a wall of fire on the coastline.

It was also because of such a huge and dense explosion that everyone in the entire pirate base was awakened.

A large group of pirates stared at the billowing speedboats, one by one in shock.

In Badr's room, two sleeping young women were also awakened by the explosion, and then the two of them hurriedly wanted to wake Badr, who was still lying motionless on the pillow.

This push doesn't matter. One of the women instantly discovered that Badr's body was upright, but his head was completely opposite.

She looked surprised at first, and then subconsciously pushed Badr, only to realize that Badr's body was already cold...

This made her scream in shock. Another woman was so scared to see this scene, she was about to run out if she stumbled.

It just happened that the second master rushed to report, and seeing the woman rushing out like crazy, the second master quickly asked, "Where is the boss?"

The woman said with trepidation: "Ba... Badr... he... he's dead..."

"What are you talking about?!" The second master was struck by lightning in an instant. After recovering, he quickly ran into the room, only to find that Badr had broken his neck.

This scene frightened him to a chill in his back.

He couldn't help muttering to himself: "What's going on...what's going on...who did this..."

Immediately afterwards, an answer flashed in his mind: "Could it be...Is it the Wanlong Palace?!"

Thinking of this, he suddenly saw that Badr was holding a piece of paper in his hand. He hurriedly opened it and found that there were eight Chinese characters written on it.

Although he is the second master here, he has no educational level, let alone Chinese characters, he can't even recognize the 26 English letters.

However, he suddenly remembered that he seemed to have seen these eight words somewhere.

After thinking about it carefully, I remembered that the shape of these eight Chinese characters is very similar to the eight Chinese characters in the statement issued by Wanlongdian during the day.
