

The Charismatic Charlie Wade Chapter 3836

Even if the old queen submitted all the assets of the Nordic royal family, it would be more than 10 billion yuan, which was just enough for the basic threshold for registration.

So among the seven hundred people, she is almost the bottom of the existence.

Two hundred out of seven hundred people, according to this order, she is definitely not eligible to participate in this auction.

Seeing this, Charlie couldn't help laughing: "Hey, it seems that the Nordic royal family is indeed a bit embarrassed. The assets are less than one-tenth of the British royal family."

"Yes..." Jasmine Moore said helplessly: "I always thought that the royal families in Europe were very rich. I didn't expect the royal families in Northern Europe to be so miserable..."

...

In fact, the old queen in northern Europe also knew in her heart that the Nordic royal family hadn't seized any development opportunities in these years, and just a little bit of the assets uploaded by the ancestors, it was indeed impossible to get it.

Speaking of her ancestral property, she will collect it in the palace, and if all those antique calligraphy and paintings are converted into it, it is estimated that there will be more than hundreds of millions of dollars.

However, those things are inherited in an orderly manner, and there is no market, and they cannot be evaluated at all. Otherwise, once they are taken out, the whole world will know that the Nordic royal family has begun to sell their ancestral properties.

Moreover, even if those assets are converted into it, it will not help their rankings. Two hundred out of seven hundred people, whether it is the sixth from the bottom, the sixteenth from the bottom, or even the sixtieth from the bottom, is basically the same. the result of.

In order to prevent losing the election, she specifically found Helena and pleaded: "Helena, when it is convenient for you, can you help grandma call Charlie and ask him if he can give me a quota to participate in the auction?"

Helena said with some embarrassment: "Grandma, MR. Wade has helped us so much. I have never had the opportunity to pay him back for this favor. How am I embarrassed to ask MR. Wade for help..."

Helena's thoughts, the old queen naturally understood.

Charlie was kind to Helena, turning her from a chess piece used by the royal family to marry her directly into the new queen of Northern Europe, not only saving her, but also her mother.

Moreover, Charlie is not bad to himself, if he hadn't had his rejuvenation pills, he would have killed Olivia early.

No matter how you look at it, their grandson and grandson both owe Charlie too much favor. If they ask Charlie for help again at this time, it will be a bit cheeky.

Thinking of this, the old queen couldn't help sighing: "This auction, I think there will be many top big figures gathered in China. I also happen to abdicate now. I am not sensitive about my identity. If I have the opportunity to see insights and expand for our Nordic royal family. It's also a good thing to look at the network resources..."

Helena looked at the sad grandma, her expression stopped.

She knew the old lady's thoughts very well in her heart, she just wanted to take this opportunity to ask Charlie for credit, or to sell her face in front of Charlie, to see if there was any unexpected gain.

Although Helena is more grateful to Charlie than anyone else, she also has pride in her own bones. She doesn't want her grandmother to appear in front of Charlie like an old beggar. That would make Charlie look down even more. Own.

So, she softly persuaded: "Grandma, MR. Wade's threshold is indeed too high for this auction. Our Northern European royal family does not have this strength. If we just move up, it will appear that we are overwhelmed. It is better than this. Be low-key."

Helena said again: "MR. Wade's sister-in-law is now representing the Wade Family and actively cooperating with the royal family. This is also a great opportunity for the royal family. Our current energy should be used to cooperate with the Wade Family. As for the auction of Rejuvenation Pills, I don't think we will go for the time being."

The old queen wanted to say something, but after thinking about it, she endured it and went back.

No matter what Helena said, the longing deep in her heart for Rejuvenation Pill was indelible.

It's just that Helena's words are true, so she can't refute, so she can only accept it silently.

At this moment, she saw Helena's beautiful eyes filled with melancholy, so she couldn't help asking her: "Helena, do you miss Charlie?"