

Ex-Wife 1694

Chapter 1694

Both Leia and Renee walked to the back garden, where the warm sunlight and fragrance of flowers seemed to make the world a better place.

Leia finally decided to bring up Stefan when she saw Renee so gloomy. "Don't worry, Ren. They're probably not back yet because that place is far away. Since we haven't heard anything yet, it's probably good news. Plus, Stefan isn't an ordinary man, and Quinton and that dog Xavier have gone to help him. I'm sure they're fine." "I know... I know they'll be fine." Renee nodded and forced a smile. "I just feel like... the weather's so nice, and the flowers will wilt if he doesn't come back soon. It'll be a waste of good time." "It's okay. Flowers will blossom again even if they wilt. It's fine as long as you're happy and healthy when you welcome him home," Leia said brightly, hoping to cheer Renee up. She felt bad because Renee was sulky all the time.

"Are you worried about Xavier?" Renee asked curiously.

"Why should I be worried about a dog?" Leia scoffed indifferently, "It's his business whether he lives or dies. It doesn't concern me and won't affect my mood." "Do you really think so?" "Why would I lie to you? I'm more relaxed now that I don't love anyone. I'll delete their contact or blacklist them if they affect my mood." "Haha! I hope I can be like you one day," Renee chuckled. She was once as carefree as Leia, but when she lost her eyesight and got back with Stefan, she'd become timid. It was probably because she was so sheltered nowadays. She hadn't cared about such things in the past, but she cared about them now. She used to be able to do things alone back then, but now, she didn't dare to. She had to rely on Stefan, her support, to survive...

But now, he was gone. It made her feel like a floating boat, drifting with nowhere to go.

"Ren, stop overthinking. You've suffered a lot, so you've become tired and depressed. If it were me, I would have given up ages ago. You're recovering from heavy metal poisoning, so it's normal to depend on others." While talking, Leia skipped around and plucked a bunch of flowers like a monkey, then handed them to Renee. "These are for you, my goddess. Bad days are normal, and once they're over, you'll be energetic again. I'm sure that day won't be far!"

Renee smiled as she held the bouquet of flowers to her delicate face, and looked like a beauty from an oil painting. Anyone looking at her would be mesmerized. "Thank you, Lei. I'm feeling much better, so you don't have to worry about me." Renee lowered her head to smell the bouquet, and her expression brightened slightly. She took a deep breath and said, "You can leave me alone. I want to stay here for a bit." "Ugh, Ren. You... Did I annoy you? Am I talking too much?" Leia immediately shut her mouth, then carefully said, "I promise I won't say anything else from now on."

"No, it's not that."