

Chapter 1007 Effie's Objection

After Dooley and Zakai discussed the action plan, they acted separately.

Zakai found a quiet room in the hotel and began to contact those men, while Dooley went inside the banquet hall with a big smile.

Although the CEOs of big companies had a strange attitude when Dooley greeted them, some people from small companies were still quite hospitable toward him.

Dooley wasn't in the mood to figure out what was wrong with the others. He just wanted to drag Trevor down.

When it was time to cut the cake, Dooley decided to carry out his plan.

He took action while everyone was focused on him.

As he faced the three-tier cake, Dooley picked up the knife and raised his hand, preparing to cut it.

But he stopped midway and let out a tired sigh as he eventually put the knife down. In the end, he didn't cut the cake.

He pretended to be worried.

Dooley wasn't in the mood to figure out what was wrong with the others. He just wanted to drag Trevor down.

When it was time to cut the cake, Dooley decided to carry out his plan.

He took action while everyone was focused on him.

As he faced the three-tier cake, Dooley picked up the knife and raised his hand, preparing to cut it.

But he stopped midway and let out a tired sigh as he eventually put the knife down. In the end, he didn't cut the cake.

He pretended to be worried.

As a result, the CEO of a small company asked, "Why didn't you cut the cake, Mr. Sanderson? Is there something bothering you? You can always tell us your worries."

A satisfied look flashed across Dooley's eyes, but he managed to hide it and kept pretending to be worried about something.

"All of you are elite businessmen in Esterham, so thank you very much for attending my birthday party. But there's one thing that I want to say. Some time ago, I left Esterham on a business trip and my son temporarily took charge of the company. However, I didn't expect that there was a person who wanted to take advantage of the opportunity to steal the Sanderson family's money. I just want to remind everyone here to be vigilant of this person."

The CEOs of the small companies were shocked by what Dooley said.

"Mr. Sanderson, who is it? We'll teach that person a lesson!"

Noticing that things were going as expected, Dooley felt smug as he pointed at Trevor. "That's him. His name is Dragon. I do hope all of you will not make the mistake of hiring him and be more vigilant. I also want you all to do me a favor and be more vigilant. I also want you all to do me a favor and forbid him from entering any shopping malls or restaurants."

The CEOs of the small companies immediately stood up and took Dooley's side.

"How dare he steal money from the Sanderson family? That guy is never welcome in my company!"

"I will not allow him to enter my restaurant either!"

"My company will never provide any service to that person!"

"Mr. Sanderson, you are a generous man, and we will never forget your kindness. That person must be kicked out of Esterham!"

The moment these people took his side, Dooley felt excited.

With a big smile, he raised his glass and said, "Let's all work together to drive him out of Esterham!"

Dooley pretended that he did this for their own good. However, compared to the CEOs of the small companies, the representatives of major families and well-known enterprises were silent. Their expressions also seemed strange.

The banquet was suddenly suspended. And the atmosphere was tense and awkward.

Dooley frowned when he realized something was wrong.

Suddenly, Effie, the CEO of Sapphelle Group, stood up and said, "I'm sorry, but in my opinion, Dragon has a good character. I don't intend to take part in such a personal revenge." She shifted her gaze at Trevor. "If you're willing to work in my company, I'll be sure to welcome you, Dragon."

Trevor smiled at Effie as he sat in the corner. He then raised his champagne glass, motioning to her from afar.

Effie nodded and smiled.

"What do you mean?" Dooley asked as he narrowed his eyes at Effie.

The bosses of the small companies who took Dooley's side also looked at Effie in disbelief.

Was Sapphelle Group going against the Sanderson family?
