

Chapter 61

His words were beyond her understanding. She stared into his eyes. His lips slowly touched her cheek. She closed her eyes as she knew what was coming after that.

He leaned in to kiss her lips, but as he was about to touch her lips, someone knocked on the door.

Her eyes flung open, and she pushed him.

"Ryan, what are you doing in your room? Let's have dinner together."

Luna Ella's voice came from out of the door. Allison's eyes widened. She looked around to hide herself.

"Tsk! Mom, bad timing." He roared.

Allison looked at him. "What am I going to do now?" She asked in a whisper.

"What? Stay here."

"No, she will see me."

"So?"

"I don't want her to see me here."

Ryan stared at her. His mother kept banging on the door like some disaster had come to their house.

"Stay behind the door." He said, and she moved from the door.

Ryan opened the door, and his mother was about to come, but he stopped her.

"Where are you coming?"

"My son, where are your manners? Will you behave with your mother like this?"

"No, Mom. My room is just a little of a mess."

She tried to peek inside his room. "Is there a girl inside? Ryan, I told you, you can't make my house dirty by taking your girls here."

"What? No, Mom."

"What no? Every night, you return with different girls. You know how your father is."

Ryan glanced at Allison, who was listening to their conversation while lowering her head. She was looking down.

"Mom, that's a matter of the past. I don't bring any girls to your house now."

"My son, I know you are up to something. That's why you are quiet. It's the silence before the storm. Did you fancy a new girl? After that, you will again start to do the same things."

"Done?" He asked while rolling his eyes.

His mother cupped his cheeks. "Ryan, you should stop everything and join your brother. Can't you see how much he is trying to support your father? Why don't you assist him? Your father will be happy if his two sons stay here and support him."

"Excuse me? Did you just say I should assist Ethan?"

"What's wrong with that? He is your big brother. He is more capable than you. He can teach you everything in a few months. Then you two can rule the pack together. He is my son, too. I can't take away his Alpha's position from him. But you can at least be with me and stay with us together. He would love that too."

His eyes turned dark. He yanked her hands from his cheeks and replied,

"All of your lives, you two only think about him."

"Stop talking like this. We wanted you to be a better person; that's why your father sent you outside."

"I don't want to talk about it anymore. And you can have dinner with your eldest son. Happy birthday, Luna." He said and shut the door in his mother's face.

"Ryan, you should listen to us. Stop roaming around and focus on your life. We all only want your good."

His mother yelled from outside.

Allison was still staring at the floor. Luna Ella's words hit her mind.

She said he was taking a fancy to a girl, and once he got her, he would again start to hang around with other girls.

Allison felt she was foolish, who went out to search for love again. She should have controlled her heart.

"Why are you silent?" He asked her. He could see her calm reaction. It was not the same reaction when he opened the door.

He raised his brows when she did not reply to him.

"Wait a minute. Are you thinking about what she has said about girls?"

Allison slowly lifted her head and looked at him.

Her eyes were red and glossy.

It turned his face grim. He nodded his head and opened the door.

"You can leave now. I can read your mind. If you think I am not trustworthy, that's your opinion. I can't change it."

She bit her bottom lip and looked away from him.

She went out of the door and stood without turning around,

"Your parents want good things for you. Try to talk to them calmly."

She heard the loud noise of the door shutting. He did not want to listen to her.

She wiped her tears when she felt her wet cheeks.

She ran downstairs and tried to find her parents.

She wanted to leave the pack house right now.

Her mother saw her and held her wrist.

"Where were you? We were searching for you. Let's have dinner. Alpha and Luna are waiting."

Before she could deny it, her mother dragged her to the dining room.

She could see that other guests had left the party.

The party had ended. So now only family members would have lunch together.

She entered the dining room and sat on a chair.

Unexpectedly, her seat was beside Ethan.

"Finally, the family is complete. Let's start our dinner peacefully." Alpha Neil spoke out.

Allison glanced at him. How could he say that? Ryan was not at the table. The family was not completed yet.

Ethan noticed her expression. He whispered to her, "What happened?"

She shook her head and focused on her plate. Her mind was messed up. She could still feel Ryan's lips on her neck and cheek.

She wanted to trust him, but his mother's words were also true.

What if he wants to play with her?

'He himself told me that he did not believe in love.

It's not like I have any feelings for him. But I was about to try to open my heart.' She thought.

"I was thinking about finding the best girl for Ethan.

What are your thoughts about it, Allison?"

Alpha Neil asked her.

She looked at him and then at Ethan. She cleared her throat.

"He needs a high ranked she-wolf who can support him and rule the pack equally with him."

Her answers made others silent. She glanced at everyone and asked,

"Did I say anything wrong?"

Luna Ella shook her head and replied with a smile, "I believe an Omega can also run the pack. My son is capable of fighting alone in any war. He doesn't need a high ranked Luna to win any other pack."

"Oh."

Allison muttered and looked away from her. She did not want to be a part of that conversation because her mind was somewhere else.

Ethan was staring at her, which did not go unnoticed by everyone. He replied with a confident tone,

"I have an omega in my eyes, Mom. I believe she will be able to handle me and my pack together."
