

Chapter 957 Interrogated Dotson

---

After giving instructions to Bowen, Liam requested that everyone vacate the premises.

He lingered in Double Stars until the stroke of midnight.

Yet, instead of returning to his home in Nightingale Villa Area, he directed Carsen to escort him to Dotson's holding location.

Julie, observing Liam's intent to interrogate Dotson, couldn't mask her concern. She feared Liam might succumb to his emotions, well aware of the significance this case held in his heart.

"Liam, allow me to accompany you," she said.

Confronted with Julie's resolute gaze, Liam remained silent momentarily before conceding.

Subsequently, he instructed Carsen to transport both him and Julie to Dotson's confinement.

Soon, they reached their destination.

It was the Dark Night Organization's stronghold, a venture spearheaded by Liam.

Dotson's holding location.

Julie, observing Liam's intent to interrogate Dotson, couldn't mask her concern. She feared Liam might succumb to his emotions, well aware of the significance this case held in his heart.

"Liam, allow me to accompany you," she said.

Confronted with Julie's resolute gaze, Liam remained silent momentarily before conceding.

Subsequently, he instructed Carsen to transport both him and Julie to Dotson's confinement.

Soon, they reached their destination.

It was the Dark Night Organization's stronghold, a venture spearheaded by Liam.

The site was desolate and in ruins, abandoned and untouched for years.

As Liam surveyed the decrepit scene, a surge of painful memories flooded him, rendering his eyes hollow with sorrow.

He felt he could hear echoes of laughter and voices from friends long gone.

However, he could no longer meet those people. Their absence a tangible void in his heart.

Despite five years passing, the fury within him continued to blaze.

He must ask Dotson about what had happened in the past.

He needed to know who had destroyed his family and taken away his happiness five years ago.

Liam's eyes suddenly turned cold.

Looking at the ruins in front of him, he muttered, "I will find out the real murderer and avenge you!"

"Carsen! Bring him to me!" he ordered.

Upon Liam's command, Carsen fetched the unconscious Dotson.

Liam, with a cold stare, jolted Dotson awake with a kick.

"Tell me the identity of the Saint Society member who conspired with the Duncan family!"

Dotson, slowly regaining consciousness and realizing Liam's identity, let out a manic laugh.

"It's you. You survived! I never imagined you'd gain such power in a mere five years. But heed my warning. Release me! Seeking vengeance will only lead you to your demise."

Despite Dotson's awareness of Liam's formidable strength, he maintained a defiant demeanor, confident in the powerful backing he had.

However, his arrogance quickly deflated when Liam, unfazed by Dotson's threats, responded with a scornful sneer and a swift slap across Dotson's face.

"Unwilling to talk? Then face your end!" Liam shouted.

His grip tightened around Dotson's neck, signaling a clear threat of imminent death should his obstinacy persist.

Confronted with the tangible presence of death, panic swept over Dotson. Gasping for air, he said, "Stop! I'll tell you everything. Just don't kill me!"

Releasing his grip, Liam threw Dotson to the floor, his sneer deepening. "No more tricks. Tell me now!"

Cornered and subdued, Dotson confessed without deceit.

"The Hoffman family fell at the hands of Adamson Chapman, one of the four guardians of the Saint Society, a Primogem Warrior of extraordinary caliber. Adamson could harness the primogem strength in others to augment his own. Already a level six Primogem Warrior five years ago, his current power is beyond measure. You might overpower me, Liam, but Adamson is out of your league. Killing me will only incite the Saint Society's wrath. By that time, you will be doomed eternally!"

He continued, "Spare me, and I swear, I won't come back to Salem anymore! We'll pretend as if this never happened. I won't find any reason to go against you!"

Having uttered these words, Dotson fixed his gaze on Liam, anticipating his response.

However, these words did not reflect Dotson's true intentions. His real motive was to deceive Liam. The moment he departed from this place, he intended to promptly inform Adamson about everything that had transpired with Liam.

Unbeknownst to him, Liam harbored no intention of mercy. The truth now laid bare, and Liam's sneer turned cold.

Chapter 957 Interrogated Dotson 🎁 +120 Points at most

"Do you take me for a fool? Am I that gullible? Dotson, your eyes reveal a deep-seated resentment. You're not going to let this slide so easily! So, screw you! And don't worry, I'll send Adamson to accompany you in hell!"

Our ads aim to provide better support for authors.