

Married At First Sight

Married At First Sight Chapter 3173-Zachary continued, "Don't think too much. You two have just experienced more storms than others. You can always see a rainbow after the storm. My sister is too busy right now. As you know, the pressure is on her."

"Although she did well in the workplace before marriage, she became a housewife at home after marriage. She was out of touch with society for a few years. After the divorce, she did not start her own business for a long time. Now, she is suddenly asked to open a company specifically for Farrell Group.

She is inexperienced and under great pressure. The young mistress of the Farrell Group is not a fuel-efficient light. The two of them have a tough battle to fight. My sister doesn't want to be distracted, so she said she is not in a hurry to get the marriage certificate."

After listening to Zachary's words, Duncan said, "You are right. Liberty is under a lot of pressure and is busy right now. I shouldn't think nonsense. I have to stand behind her and be her strong support when she needs me, so I rush to her side as soon as possible. When I was not needed, I would silently watch over the mother and son, watching her move forward and watching her become stronger little by little."

Duncan looked forward to Liberty's transformation.

Being with Duncan, Liberty was also under great pressure.

Others always said that because of Serenity's relationship, she was the first to get the moon, and she didn't know what means she used to capture his heart.

Even though Duncan helped her clear up all kinds of rumors, someone was still talking about it privately, and then it reached her ears.

Why was she working so hard just to be side by side with Duncan?

Zachary smiled and said, "So, you are really sensitive. You two are doing well. If someone pursues my sister, you will defeat your love rival. If someone steals you from my sister, I believe I don't need my sister to take action. You'll first keep your distance from other women."

When Duncan was in his twenties, he was not easily tempted. Now he is almost forty years old, more mature, and calm, and he has seen many kinds of beauties, so he will not be easily tempted.

Duncan felt much more relaxed.

He picked up his cup of coffee, drank half of it, put down the cup, and said to Zachary, "I disturbed you and took up your time. Come, let's talk about business. We can't let your time go to waste. I'll always give you some benefits."

Zachary smiled. "Then I won't be polite."

Duncan stayed at the York Corporation for two hours before leaving.

Back at Lewis & Co., as soon as he entered the office building in a wheelchair, the front desk quickly greeted him and then told him that Ms. Girard was here and waiting for him upstairs.

Duncan nodded.

Ainsley said she would come back another day, but she came before she contacted him.

Duncan didn't think much. He asked the bodyguard not to follow him. He steered the automatic wheelchair to the elevator entrance, entered the elevator, and soon reached the top floor.

"Mr. Lewis."

The secretary saw Duncan coming out of the elevator; she quickly came over to greet him and pushed the wheelchair.

Duncan said to the secretary in a low voice, "Ms. Girard has been waiting in the VIP room for nearly an hour. Ms. Girard has been here for so long; why didn't you call me?"

The secretary replied, "Ms. Girard said that Mr. Lewis has not returned to the company yet and must be busy. She asked me not to call you in a hurry. It doesn't matter if she waits."

So the secretary stopped calling.

Usually, Duncan did rehabilitation in the morning and only returned to the company in the afternoon. He rarely stayed in company all day.

Because Ainsley was so considerate, the secretary did not call Duncan.

Ainsley and her secretary, who were waiting in the VIP room, heard the noise outside and guessed that Duncan had returned to the company.

Ainsley led her secretary out of the VIP room.
