

Chapter 127

Ethan shook her arm when he saw Allison lost somewhere. He asked, "What happened?"

"Don't you think she looks angry?" Allison asked as she stared at the gate of the garden.

Ethan rolled his eyes and replied,

"Stay away from that woman. She can be harmful to you."

"Why?" Allison asked and turned her gaze at him.

"She is not like us. She is different. She is a witch and a werewolf. We can't ignore her witch blood."

"So what? We are friends with witches."

"I don't know. I don't like her. I can't like her." He said with a frown.

"At first, you rejected me for being an Omega. Now you start to despise people for their natural identity."

"That's enough. You can't bring up rejection in every single one of our conversations. You told me that you had forgiven me two years ago. However, after some time had passed, you once more began to criticize me for that. Allison, that is not cool at all."

She was reminded of the promise she had made to him after he had saved her life in the accident to forgive him from the bottom of her heart.

She actually did until he showed his true colors.

Allison walked past him and walked out of the garden. Ethan followed her behind as he wanted to hear her explanation.

When Allison looked up and saw her father seated on the couch, she immediately came to a stop. Her mother patted his back while saying something. Her father looked angry. He did not look in a good mood.

"What happened to him?" She asked.

Ethan chose to maintain his silence since he did not want to bring up the topic of what had occurred earlier today in the meeting room.

"Let's go. We have to go outside." Ethan remarked before taking her hand in his.

"No, wait." After saying that, she headed in the direction of her father.

"Dad, what happened?" She asked as she looked at him carefully.

Her father looked up from the couch and glared at her.

"Do you really want to know what happened?" He said with a furious tone.

Joey glanced at the area to see if anyone was there. Then she said,

"Not here, Glen. And she does not have anything to do with it."

Allison glanced at her mother. "When did you come here, Mom? Why does Dad look mad? Did something happen?"

Allison was startled when Glen suddenly stood up, and she took a step backward. Her body bumped into Ethan, who was standing behind him. He wrapped his hand around her shoulders and looked at her father.

"She was not present in the meeting. I want you not to discuss anything with her. I hope you will obey me as your Alpha."

Allison was perplexed. "What are you all talking about? I want to know."

Ethan shook his head. "You don't need to know."

Glen stared at Allison and said, "Look at this man. He is our head Alpha. When he was only the son of our Alpha, he never tried to ill-treat me in any way. Just like his father, he always treated me and your mother, including you, as his own family. This is the person I chose for you. The best man ever. Children can think that their parents are selfish. But they only think well of their children."

The unexpected outburst from Allison's father took her by surprise. She slowly turned to Ethan and asked,

"What did he do this time?"

Ethan was aware that she had questioned him about Ryan. Ethan let out a sigh before dragging her along with him.

"I told you. You don't need to know. He is here for a week. He will go back soon, and our lives will be normal again. So leave it."

Allison glanced at her father and felt that something really big had happened.

At that time, Ella entered the living room. She looked at the atmosphere and kept quiet.

"You said we have to go with them." Allison said to Ella.

"Yeah, as Luna, you should go with Elora. But I want Ethan to go with you. You two almost never went anywhere by yourselves. Therefore, I wished to relieve you of your responsibilities for a couple of hours."

Allison was unable to deny it. Going with another pack's Luna was also her duty. She was the host of this pack for the guests.

"Okay, I am going to change clothes." She said and went upstairs to Ethan's room.

When she opened the closet door, she discovered a plethora of garments neatly organized within.

She decided to wear a dress that was bottle green and reached her knees. She went to the bathroom and changed her clothes hurriedly.

To her surprise, many cosmetics were also there in a drawer of the closet. She put on light makeup. She wore white heels, which went really well with her dress, and left the room after pulling her hair back into a high ponytail.

She proceeded to stroll over to the stairway and descend it. She overheard Alpha Neil yelling at someone. He was bellowing loudly. She was dumbfounded as to the reason behind his unexpected outburst of rage.

She then made her way over to the couches where Alpha Neil and Ella were having their conversation.

"How dare he humiliate my best friend in front of another packs' head Alphas? Those Alphas were lads in front of us when we ran the pack. We used to deal with their fathers. Their fathers always lowered their heads whenever they talked to me or my Beta. But today, he insulted my beta. So what if he retired? I am also retired. If I can join the meeting of the pack, which I built for a long time, then why can't my beta? How dare he accuse him in front of those people of being unprofessional?"

Allison clenched her fists while listening to Alpha Neil. Her father's head was low. Her mother looked upset; it might hurt her too.

Ella was silent because Alpha Neil was talking to her. Ethan was nowhere to be found.

Allison closed her eyes to control her anger. Ryan talked rubbish about her father in front of her in the forest two years ago. That time, she couldn't take it and slapped him. She thought he was talking insanely out of anger.

But she forgot how he was.

People say the truth that you turn blind in love.

Though her father did not like Ryan, he never said anything bad about him directly. Then why did Ryan disrespect him in front of others?

Allison did not interrupt the conversation and turned to the entrance. She walked to the door.

"Two years ago, I did something wrong to you to break your heart. But you moved on in your life. Then why are you doing this? I can tolerate anything but my parents' insults. I even sacrificed my own happiness to keep them in my life. I died inside daily just thinking that they were wrong not to support you but Ethan."

"Let's go."

She turned her head and saw Ethan. He held her hand and walked out of the pack house.

Allison's eyes gazed at Ethan, then moved to the man who was sitting in the black car. His predatory eyes shifted on hers.

"Don't prove me wrong. Let me live with regret."

Don't do anything to make me hate you, Ryan.'
