

Married At First Sight Chapter 3232-Yesterday, Abby had a conversation with Serenity, and they were able to chat, so she had no choice but to go to Serenity's company.

"I usually don't drink coffee at noon."

The two people walked out of the office together.

Abby looked at Serenity's belly and said, "You'd better not drink coffee or strong tea now. You still have to avoid these foods when you're pregnant."

Serenity smiled and said, "I know, I haven't drank coffee, strong tea, or wine for a long time."

It was because she hadn't had coffee for a long time that Abby came and needed Abby to make coffee by herself.

"Miss Stone didn't come here today?" Abby asked casually.

She had been here for half an hour, but she didn't see Elisa coming to say hello.

"Elisa went to the market today and won't be back until the evening."

She and Jasmine are both pregnant women. Even if they think they can kill a cow, in Elisa's eyes, they are national treasures and must be taken care of carefully to prevent them from going to the market again.

Abby said, Oh.

After entering the canteen, the two of them prepared meals and found a remote location to sit down.

Abby looked at the work meals, which included fish, meat, and shrimp, and asked, "Are all the work meals in your company the same? Aren't they graded?"

"It's the same, regardless of grade."

Everyone who works here serves as management, so there's no need to categorize them into different levels.

It's impossible for workers at the vegetable market to come here to eat; it's too far away.

However, she also contracted for three meals a day for the workers in the market, and the food was not bad. She required that the meals have meat and oil. The workers who worked in the market did a tiring job. If the food they ate did not have oil or water, they would not eat; they get hungry quickly.

Serenity came from the countryside. Although the sisters left the village after they were ten years old, she had helped the family with a lot of farm work before she was ten years old. She knew that the work in the fields was tiring and strenuous.

Serenity glanced at Abby and asked her, "Is your company divided into levels?"

Abby hummed, "There are several canteens with different levels. You can eat at different canteens. The food is, of course, different, but you can eat even the worst work meals, and it is better than the food in some fast food restaurants.

The company's canteen can guarantee that we will not eat pre-prepared dishes. We do not allow the canteen to purchase pre-prepared dishes. We also cannot buy pre-made dishes. It is best to buy the ingredients and eat them on the same day."

"Abby, how was your chat with Evan last night?" Serenity asked.

Abby was drunk last night, and she couldn't ask.

Now that Abby had arrived, she couldn't help but gossip.

Abby ate in silence.

Serenity looked at her and asked with concern, "Breaking up on bad terms?"

"That's right. If we had gone well, I wouldn't have gotten drunk last night. The wine last night was delicious, but the stamina was really strong. When I drank, I thought I could drink a few bottles, but I didn't expect to get drunk very quickly."

Abby's mood became a little depressed when she mentioned Evan.

She was a little attracted to a man whose external conditions suit her very well, but his heart wasn't with her.

This gave Abby a taste of frustration.

She was not afraid that Serenity would laugh at her; she was quite arrogant, and she really looked down on ordinary men.

She also believed that the man she liked would like her.

Serenity asked, "What did he say? Could it be that he didn't mean that and simply treated you as a friend?"

Abby said, "He said that he has no love for me between men and women. He pursued me and treated me well because he wanted to cultivate a relationship, but unfortunately, it failed. He also mentioned that his grandma had chosen me as his wife."
