Married At First Sight Chapter 3283-Tinsley said, "Sister, you don't even need to exercise. "Your figure is always a standard model figure because you don't eat well."

Elora didn't eat well and would rather go hungry.

She didn't always eat well, and she was under a lot of pressure from work. It was no wonder she was fat.

Tinsley said, "Sister, Tatum lets you eat comfortably. Isn't that considerate? You can't claim that the snacks he prepares for you are your favorites. That's because you don't have any snacks that you particularly like. However, the snacks he prepares for you are ones that you can eat.

From what I have compared, this box of mine is very casual. Of course, the snacks he makes are exquisite and taste good, but I can still tell that he prepares them with care. In the past two days, we both have had more lunch breaks, and you don't have to drink so much coffee in the afternoon."

Elora said, "Tinsley, I seriously suspect that you have been bribed by Tatum. What is his motive for asking you to say good things about him in front of me?"

Tinsley said, "How is it possible that he has only been working for two or three days, and can he bribe me? I just feel it for myself."

Elora reminded Tinsley helplessly, "I'm afraid you have forgotten. Tatum is the private chef I invited back. He only serves me and my family. He mainly serves me. If he fails to cater to my hunger, then who else will? What will I do to the private chef that I invested a great deal of time in bringing back if he refuses to serve me? Let him go back and be his boss.

Also, he is still in the probationary period. It is still unknown whether he can complete the job in one month. He also said that he came to work as my personal chef because it was challenging.

Wouldn't it be in vain if he came all the way here only to have his probation period terminated? Additionally, hiring a new private chef would not be beneficial. He is a smart man and has a very clear mind."

After Elora finished speaking, she took Tinsley in her arms and said, "Tinsley, tell me, who asked you to always praise Tatum in front of me? Is it my mother's or my father's? Or does everyone mean it?"

She had many younger siblings, but she had the best relationship with Tinsley. The sisters were close in age.

Although Tinsley looked like a foodie, she was her right-hand man, who was very capable. With this sister helping to manage the family company, she felt much more relaxed.

Only Tinsley and her brother, Alonzo, dared to speak unscrupulously in front of her.

Even her parents would be cautious in front of her, afraid of saying something that would make her unhappy.

She was twenty-six years old this year, and she would be twenty-seven after the new year. She had no boyfriend and was indifferent to other people's pursuits.

Although the company needed her support and the family relied on her, her parents were still like everyone else. Seeing her getting older little by little, they began to worry about her life events.

Her parents knew how many young talents there were in Annenburg's upper class. Unknown to them, they had tried to match her up with those young talents, but they had failed. She had no feelings for those young talents.

Either he was several or even a dozen years older than her, or he was younger than her.

She didn't like sibling relationships. But she didn't want to marry an uncle either.

Her parents were worried about her life events, but they dared not show them.

Would Tatum's appearance make her parents think too much?
