

Chapter 1048 The Change Of The Salvation Society

Sensing Liam's impulse to return to the Duncan family, Laura intervened urgently, her tone grave. "Liam, you can't go back! It's too dangerous. Besides, I have something important to tell you."

Liam halted at her serious tone and inquired, "What is it?"

Suddenly, it dawned on Liam that Laura's departure from Genesis Island was highly unusual, sparking a sense of foreboding within him.

Laura's expression turned solemn, her eyes betraying a deep sorrow. "Something terrible has happened to the Salvation Society. My grandfather is dead, and even the president has vanished! I fear he may not have survived."

Laura's revelation struck Liam like a thunderbolt, leaving him stunned.

He couldn't comprehend how such misfortune could have befallen the Salvation Society, especially since Julie and the others had been captured by the Duncan family.

Liam's expression darkened with disbelief as he uttered, "How could this happen? With Master's strength, who could make him disappear?"

Liam's expression darkened with disbelief as he uttered, "How could this happen? With Master's strength, who could make him disappear?"

Laura's eyes welled up with tears as she recounted the harrowing events.

"During the recent negotiations with the Saint Society, the Lord of the War God House within the Salvation Society was bribed by our enemies. Even some of our own elders betrayed us. In the ensuing chaos, my grandfather and the president were ambushed without warning. The president vanished amid the turmoil, while my grandfather managed to escape with the help of fellow elders, though he sustained grievous injuries."

After a pause, she continued, "He risked his life to return and inform me. He entrusted me with these details before he passed. He wanted me to seek your help. I haven't received any news about the president since then. So, I fear..." Laura trailed off, but Liam understood her implication.

In Laura's eyes, the president's fate was likely the same as her grandfather's.

Despite his reluctance to accept it, Liam couldn't deny the grim reality. The relentless onslaught orchestrated by the powerhouses of the Saint Society and the traitors within the Salvation Society had made survival a daunting challenge even for someone as powerful as his master.

The news struck Liam like a devastating blow, igniting a fierce blaze of hatred within him.

His resentment towards the Saint Society intensified.

The Saint Society were responsible for the deaths of his loved ones—Jaxtyn, Yesenia, Carsen. And now, they had potentially taken his master as well.

Liam's heart burned with an intense hatred for the Saint Society, but alongside it surged an insatiable thirst for strength.

If he were to avenge the deaths of those he cherished, he realized he must become stronger.

Strength was his shield against harm, his means of ensuring justice for the fallen.

Liam knew how to enhance his strength quickly, but facing the two troubles at once put him in a dilemma.

He felt the weight of immense pressure bearing down on him, threatening to overwhelm him entirely.

His thoughts spiraled into chaos until he recalled his master's trick to calm himself down.

Drawing upon his master's words for guidance, Liam steeled his resolve. "I cannot afford to panic! I need to remain composed. Only then will I be able to rescue them and rectify this dire situation!"
