

Chapter 66 Tell Him Off

Everyone in the meeting room was eager to see how Loraine would prove to them that she was capable of heading the project. Their intense gazes were on her face.

Loraine's eyes swept through the meeting room. She then began to point at each designer one after the other.

"Harlee, you are in charge of the hospital project. Your top priorities are the safe and sanitary standards of the building, which include the usage of the new anti-bacterial decoration materials. In addition, it's your job to make sure there is room for the easy movement of larger surgical equipment to and from the operation room."

"Becky, during the execution of the school project, you have to keep in mind that it's a place of learning. The quality, safety, and education functions must all be placed on the same importance level. None is more important than the other. Make sure the dormitory isn't far away from the canteen and the teaching building. Otherwise, it will create inconvenience for the teachers and students."

"As for you, Aidan, you should pay attention to the construction of the elderly people's section in the cultural activity center. Make sure the devices there are user-friendly and mounted for easy usage."

Each idea was a masterpiece. They caused a stir in the audience.

As the chief designer of this project, it was Loraine's job to deploy a comprehensive strategy for the design plans. She needed to have general knowledge about each aspect and make sure there weren't any malpractices that might mar the entire project.

Now that she spoke, it became obvious that she knew the nitty-gritty of each aspect. She was not just a figurehead who watched others do the job.

The entire meeting room was dead silent after Loraine finished her speech. Soon, they couldn't help expressing their admiration for her.

"Whoa! Loraine is so good. She's my role model!"

"Yes! Although this project is a complicated one, she's so observant. Some of the details she pointed out had totally skipped my mind!"

"No wonder she could defeat Nichol. I have to admit that she is really something!"

The string of compliments that were showered on Loraine made Nichol's face turn many shades redder. His veins popped on his forehead as they compared him to her. Despite his rage, he couldn't retort.

Loraine took a deep breath and continued in a low voice, "Now is there anyone who still thinks I'm not qualified to head this project? Speak now or forever hold your peace!"

No one said a word or made a sound. Some of the designers turned to look at Nichol, but he just bowed his head with his lips sealed.

All the other designers had nothing but adoration for Loraine now that she had proven herself worthy.

She was awesome.

Jolie's eyes shone with admiration as she looked at Loraine. She gave her a thumbs up.

Loraine knocked out all the challenges that were thrown at her like they were nothing. In the same vein, she continued to push forward with the project.

The government inspection group would be coming soon, so Bryant Group and Universe Group decided to hold a welcome party together.

As the chief executives of this cooperative project, Marco and Loraine were sure to attend the party.

Klein was worried about them being in the same space since they didn't see eye to eye. To caution them, he summoned them beforehand.

"I get it that you both aren't on good terms. But I would like to enjoin you to set aside your differences for the welcome event. Please put up with each other so we won't experience any difficulties with the officials today. Can you two do that?"

Loraine wasn't irrational, so she nodded in response.

"You can rest assured. I won't let our differences get in the way."

Marco stole a glance at Loraine and then said, "I have no objection."

Klein smiled with a sense of relief. He was just about to dismiss them when he noticed that Marco's eyes were glued to Loraine. It reminded him of his promise to bring these two back together.

Turning to Loraine, he asked with a smile, "The party is about to begin. Do you have a date? If you don't, I'd like to point out that Marco doesn't have one too. How about you two go together?"

Marco's heart was in his mouth as he waited for Loraine's response. At the same time, he tried to keep calm so as not to seem desperate. To his dismay, Loraine turned down the proposal without mincing words.

"Thanks for your concern, but I already have a date."

Marco blurted out, "Who is that? Is it Rowan?"

Klein's eyes widened in surprise when he heard Marco's statement.

Why would Loraine ask Rowan to be her date for the welcome party?

Was Rowan the guy who was alleged to be her sugar daddy?

Curiosity got the best of Klein, so he asked, "Loraine, are you acquainted with Mr. Torres?"

Loraine nodded at him, ignoring Marco's question.

"You still haven't answered my question, Loraine. Is Rowan your date?" Marco was on the verge of losing his temper.

It was rather ridiculous that he was questioning her as if he was her husband. Loraine lost her cool in a split second.

"Have you forgotten that you are no longer my husband? It's none of your business who I bring as a date. Don't you think so?"