

Chapter 74 The Queen Of Charity

A few days after the banquet, Loraine received a call from Klein.

"Congratulations, Miss Torres! The superior was highly satisfied with the progress of the project. He also praised you. Good job!"

Loraine didn't allow the praise to get into her head. She uttered calmly, "Thank you. I didn't do this alone. Every member of the team contributed to the success of the project."

"Come off it. You don't have to be so modest. We all know that your involvement made a huge difference in the project. If you keep up the good work, you will get promoted again soon."

Klein sighed inwardly.

It came as a surprise to him that Loraine would still be unruffled after the previous rumors. Even so, her position was more stable than ever.

"I see. In that case, I'll continue to put in my best. Thanks for the update and compliment."

The two spoke for another minute before hanging up.

At this moment, someone knocked on the door. "Come in," Loraine intoned, putting down her phone.

The door swung open immediately. Jolie came in with a strange look on her face.

"Loraine, there are some packages for you outside."

Not sparing a thought, Loraine said, "Please bring them in."

The next second, a deliveryman pushed a cart in. The cart was filled with many boxes from designer brands.

"Good day, ma'am. Are you Loraine Torres?" The deliveryman wiped the sweat on his head. "These are for you. There are still a few carts behind. Please sign for them first."

The delivery of these luxury goods caused a stir in the design department. The employees gathered by the door and gossiped.

"Oh my God! That's Hermes, Chanel, Dior, Cartier, and Balenciaga!"

"Whoa! I can't believe my eyes. This is the first time I'm seeing such luxury goods get delivered to our department."

"Are these all for Loraine? Who sent them? The person must be Santa Claus. So generous!"

Amidst the exclamations of her colleagues, Loraine frowned deeply.

Who on earth sent them to her?

Shortly after, she got an answer to her question.

There was a card on one of the boxes, so she picked it up.

"All these are to be returned to the rightful owner. From Marco Bryant."

These few words made her face darken in an instant.

What the hell did Marco mean? Was he trying to prove what he said about giving her things better than Rowan could ever give her?

"What an annoying fellow. He thinks I am so cheap!" Loraine sneered with irritation.

She then turned to the deliveryman. "I'm sorry. I can't take these things. Please send them back."

The deliveryman, who was loading off the boxes from the cart, froze and said, "Ma'am, I'm sorry, but that won't be possible. The sender instructed that I throw all of them away if you turn them down. Are you sure you don't want them?"

"Yes, I'm sure!" Loraine replied without hesitation.

When the deliveryman heard this, he shrugged and uttered resignedly, "Then I have to dispose these off."

Gasps of astonishment came from the door.

When Loraine saw the deliveryman loading the boxes onto the cart again, she realized that he wasn't joking. She stopped him after hesitating for a long time.

"Wait! Don't throw them away."

Loraine was still displeased at the sight of all the boxes.

After all, who wouldn't be mad that their office was filled with boxes of unwanted things from their troublesome ex-husband?

Although Loraine didn't want to throw them away because it would be wasteful, she couldn't accept them either.

Loraine thought for a while and then came up with an idea.

She waved at Jolie and ordered, "Jolie, please send all the boxes to Claude Charity Auction as a donation."

Jolie's jaw dropped. "What? I should donate all of them?"

"Yes, you heard me right. Donate them all!"
Lorraine nodded.

It was a hefty donation, so the news soon got out.

The media labeled her as the Queen of Charity. Unlike the other times, Lorraine was now the topic of discussion online for a good deed. Everyone who heard of the donation was shocked to the bone.

Comments on the news flooded all social media platforms.

"Those items cost a fortune. I guess they are worth at least thirty million dollars in total. Lorraine is the present-day Mother Theresa!"

Some netizens even commented on how Lorraine managed to have all those goods.

While a few of them guessed that they came from Cayson, some said that they were from Rowan, and a couple said that Marco they were alimony from Marco.

Irrespective of how Lorraine got these things, everyone praised her for donating them to charity.

It was a hot topic all over the internet, so Marco soon got wind of it.

He couldn't believe his eyes when he saw the news. Mixed feelings surged in his heart. He felt sad that she didn't accept his gifts, but he was happy she gave them to charity. ②

Her actions made him realize that she was different from other women.

Money or expensive gifts didn't move her. ①

Marina and Keely also heard the news. They were furious beyond words.

Anger steamed off Marina's ears as she thought of how she was stripped of her luxury items. Besides from the ones that were rightfully Loraine's, Marco had collected some of her wears as punishment for her stealing.

Keely was scared when she heard what happened to Marina, so she couldn't hold on to Loraine's items. She sent them back before Marco asked her about them.

Money wasn't a problem for Keely since she was a member of an affluent family.

However, she was angry that she was forced to return all the things she stole from Loraine. ④