

Chapter 1952 Evidence Cannot Be Made Public

Johanna waved away Brandon's concerns, reassuring him, "Don't dwell on it. We understand the challenges of the business world all too well. In the business world, such schemes are unfortunately common. Just focus on resolving this."

Once Brandon had regained his composure, Johanna's tone turned serious as she asked, "Julian's last video message appears genuine."

There were multiple recordings of Julian being forcibly removed from Janet's studio by Brandon's bodyguards.

What was the conflict between Julian and the couple? How had they handled it before?

Beal also turned to Brandon. Though both utilized their connections to contain the fallout, Beal hadn't had the chance to delve into the specifics.

With a furrowed brow, Brandon recounted the events following Julian's entry into Janet's studio. However, he hesitated to disclose the invasive act of secret filming.

"Julian planted a bug in Janet's studio?" Johanna's anger flared at the revelation. "He has no decency! He portrays himself as the victim, solely blaming you,

Chapter 1952 Evidence Cannot Be M +120 Points at most last video message appears genuine."

There were multiple recordings of Julian being forcibly removed from Janet's studio by Brandon's bodyguards.

What was the conflict between Julian and the couple?
How had they handled it before?

Beal also turned to Brandon. Though both utilized their connections to contain the fallout, Beal hadn't had the chance to delve into the specifics.

With a furrowed brow, Brandon recounted the events following Julian's entry into Janet's studio. However, he hesitated to disclose the invasive act of secret filming.

"Julian planted a bug in Janet's studio?" Johanna's anger flared at the revelation. "He has no decency! He portrays himself as the victim, solely blaming you, Brandon, for driving him to suicide, yet he conveniently omits all the despicable acts he committed!"

After her outburst, Johanna seemed to recollect something and inquired further, "So, Julian only clandestinely installed a bug in Janet's studio? He didn't do anything beyond that?"

If Julian had only planted a bug, Brandon wouldn't have forced him to commit suicide out of anger.

Brandon's expression darkened, and after a brief hesitation, he revealed, "There are numerous private photos of girls on Julian's electronic devices. He even hired an employee from Janet's studio to photograph her clandestinely. Rest assured, these are merely candid snapshots of Janet's daily life. There are no compromising images; otherwise, I wouldn't have allowed him the opportunity to leave a suicide note."

"To stoop so low! It's reprehensible!" Beal's usually composed demeanor cracked, his anger palpable. His features contorted with rage.

Sensing the tension escalating, Brandon hastened to reassure his parents-in-law. "Please don't worry. Janet discovered this on her own. She's extra cautious now and hasn't suffered any harm. You needn't worry."

"How can we not worry?" Johanna's distress was evident, tears threatening to spill from her eyes. Turning to Beal, she declared, "We must investigate this thoroughly and uncover the culprit! I won't rest until justice is served!"

As Brandon continued to reassure them that Julian's photos of Janet were innocuous, Johanna's frustration only mounted, raising her blood pressure.

Displaying a calmer demeanor, Beal expressed his concern. "If that's the case, then we couldn't expose Julian's wrongdoing online. It could complicate efforts to clear Brandon's name."

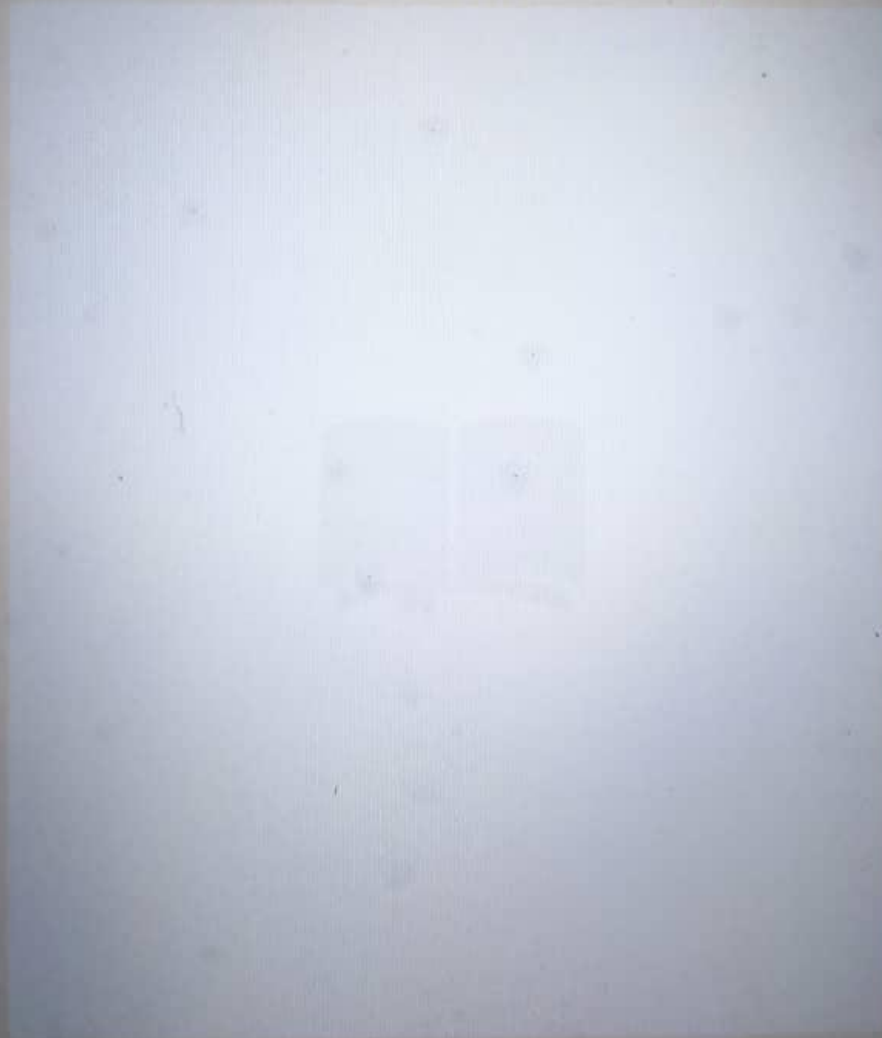

Brandon interjected, "I've arranged for someone to retrieve the surveillance footage from Janet's studio. It clearly shows Julian planting the bug, and his reaction when my bodyguards discovered something in his car suggests guilt."

With the surveillance video now circulating online, public opinion became divided between supporting Brandon and Julian. Brandon opted to slow down the pace of his investigation, preferring to gather more evidence.

Additionally, Brandon suspected that Julian didn't

Chapter 1952 Evidence Cannot Be M  +120 Points at most act alone in his schemes and that there was a powerful entity orchestrating events behind the scenes.

Our ads aim to provide better support for authors.

 I want no ads >