

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 471: The Black Wisp

THE BLACK WISP

Redmond stared at the distance, he was currently in disbelief upon seeing what the warriors under him had done behind his back. He had been a way for so long, until he didn't realize, Lyle had taken over his role and wormed into their loyalty to him.

Despite whatever reason it might be, it was still unacceptable.

Currently, he was standing not too far from the howling Wolf pack's gate, staring at the distance toward a bunch of ungrateful jerk, who he thought was his people. They avoided his eyes, as if they felt shameful and guilty, as they should!

Behind Redmond, a few Howling Wolf pack's warriors followed him out for this negotiation, since this battle shouldn't happen in the first place, while Jace stood on the fortress, staring down at them all. The beta's expression was so cold, as if he was ready for the worst. He didn't believe it would go smoothly, the way they wanted it.

Meanwhile, in front of Redmond was Lyle.

His second in command, or should he call him as his ex second in command, stood ten steps away from him. They stared at each other and in the end, it was Redmond, who broke the silence.

"What do you mean with this?! Back off now and admit to your wrongdoing, I will spare you!" Redmond barked, he was seething. The worse betrayal came from your close one and right now Redmond felt it.

Lyle was the person that he had gone through so much together, ever since they were under the oppression of the other warriors in the Blue Moon pack, until they could climb into this position.

For decades they had been comrades and now they had to stand in the opposite side.

"You don't actually believe I will surrender, right? I have come to this point with preparation, I will not back down." Lyle looked calm, but his eyes showed his true emotions. He was determined, this was the hill he was going to die on. "Even if we did, the Howling Wolf pack will not as generous as you."

That was true, they were going to be slaughtered once the warrior from the Howling Wolf pack got their hand on them. Both parties knew that absolute fact.

"Redmond, I know you hate the people in the Howling Wolf pack," Lyle said, this time, his tone was rather friendly, as if they were still a good friend, but Redmond showed nothing on his expression, thus he took this as his cue to keep talking. "I know you are not satisfied for being a dog for those slaves! They used to be beneath us and now they have been extorting our Blue Moon pack for their own benefit! They took our mines and that so called luna didn't do anything about it! How can you give your loyalty to such pathetic woman and follow her!"

That was how Redmond used to think of Iris. She was nothing but a weak woman, who couldn't even protect herself, let alone the Blue Moon pack.

Just like how Howling Wolf pack people disappointed for having Iris as their luna and how seeing her triggered some dreadful memories about what her father had done to them, the Blue Moon pack also was not happy for having her as the luna, since she didn't do anything for her own pack. She literally handed over the pack to Cane in a silver plate and they felt so sick to see how the two of them showed some affection here and there. Their relationship seemed doing really well recently too.

"Redmond, come. Come with me. We can revive the glory of the Blue Moon pack. We have the king behind our back," Lyle said gently, trying to persuade Redmond, because he knew this was what he wanted.

Redmond was a loyal dog. His loyalty shouldn't be questioned, though he appeared so careless and reckless, but because of Iris was the last hope for the Blue Moon pack, he stuck with her.

As it turned out, that runt was nothing, that stupid woman was drunk by the affection that the alpha gave to her.

"Together, we can revive the glory of the Blue Moon pack and stop the Howling Wolf pack from extorting our mines and our people," Lyle then spoke again, this time, his voice was rather deep. "We have the king behind our back, there is noting for you to stay in this fucking pack! We can fight them all and we can win!"

Jace frowned when he heard that. If he were Redmond, it would be the biggest temptation, since he knew Lyle only talked out loud what Redmond desired.

He maybe placed his loyalty toward Iris, but Redmond saw her as the embodiment of the Blue Moon pack.

This didn't look good, especially when Redmond made a move.

He actually walked toward Lyle!

"Come here, Redmond." Lyle's eyes lit up. "With the king backed us up, we can revive the Blue Moon pack!"

The black wisps shrouded Cane, as this old man tried to extract the lycan out of him, but it was not as easy as walking in the garden, especially when the cursed creature resisted to leave his vessel.

Cane could feel the range of emotions from anger to disgust from Lu toward this old man. Sweat trickled down from his forehead when he used all of his power to get his hand on the lycan.

Meanwhile, lady Cyan was still sitting on the ground, watching how the black wisps grew bigger and thicker. Was that the lycan's soul? Her father tried to suck the lycan's soul out?

What he was going to do with it? Lady Cyan didn't know what her father was planning with the lycan, but she was sure whatever it was, he did it for the revival of Decratic.

"Arrghh!" Cane growled, as his eyes turned into golden color, the pain was almost unbearable and because of the earlier battle with the royal warrior, it drained his energy.

HE IS NOT HER TYPE

They could hear and see it.

The two groups that was led by Ethan and Aliana could see the dark wisp, soaring in the air from a certain spot in the deepest mountain, where they could hear Cane's scream. They hastened their pace, panic shoot through their blood. It was not a good news if their alpha was screaming like that.

However, before they could reach Cane.

There were around fifteen beasts and five warriors from the Blue Moon pack that stopped them, they barricaded their path.

"What the meaning of this?!" Ethan growled at one of the Blue Moon pack warriors, which if he was not mistaken, his name was Danny. "Move away!"

Danny glared at Ethan. "How can you be here!?"

The other Blue Moon pack and the royal warriors had blockaded the Howling Wolf pack, so no one would be able to go out.

They were here to prevent any news about what happened in the mountain from leaking out and killed anyone, who tried to reach to the pack. So far, they found two people and killed them all, as per what they had instructed.

This group of warriors was also the warrior that alpha Dristan's personal warrior had mistaken as part of the Howling Wolf pack, as he was an outsider and couldn't differentiate, which pack the warriors belonged to.

But aside from that they also received another order for not stepping out of their spot right now, in no certain term they left their place, no matter what happened and what they heard, thus they didn't come to check when they heard a great battle in the distance and the thick smell of blood in the air.

They were here to prevent someone to come closer and now, he saw a bunch of young warriors and the gamma.

"Scram!" Ethan barked at them.

Meanwhile Joel, in his beast's form was ready to charge forward, despite he knew, those beasts in front of him were battle hardened warriors, who survived the war against the Howling Wolf pack a year ago. His young blood boiled, as he wanted to reach his alpha and luna as soon as possible.

"Or what?" Danny tilted his head. It was very obvious he was trying to delay Ethan and provoke him, while his men searched for another warriors, who came with this gamma. They learned a trick or two about their strategy after one year under their oppression. "Do you want to fight us? With your puppies? Don't you feel ashamed of yourself to bring these children here?" he taunted.

"No! Step back!" Ethan growled when one of the young beasts was about to attack, if one went ahead, the rest would follow, as he could feel their impatient. They were still so young and immature, and was also easily provoked.

Thankfully, they still listened to him and aside from growling viciously, they didn't make any move.

Damn it!

"Are you bringing them here for sightseeing?" Danny tilted his head and smirked. "Don't you want to know why we can shift into our beast, despite consuming Rottingbane? Don't you want to know about that?"

Ethan was silence, he didn't say anything, as he threw a dagger look at Danny.

"What? You lost your tongue? We should have killed you all when you were still slaves!" Danny spit out, but then the next thing he said struck on Ethan's nerves. "Should we invite those savages again when your poor pack fell into our hand again?"

Ethan was seeing red when he was reminded about that. His whole body was trembling and his claws emerged from the tip of his fingers, he fought himself from shifting into his beast and pulled out this fucking warrior's tongue out of his mouth.

But, weirdly enough, Ethan could hold back his anger and keep his temper in check.

But right at that time, one of the beasts from the Blue Moon pack howled in the distance, but the howl was cut short, as the silence returned.

"Damn it!" Danny cursed under his breath and looked over to Ethan, who was giving him a disdainful smirk.

Aliana managed to bring her group to move forward, thus it was Ethan's part to keep these fucking warriors from coming after them.

"Boys, it will be an honor to fight alongside with you all." Ethan then shifted into his beast form and charged forward with Joel by his side. He moved so fast, even Danny had no time to shift into his beast form, while the young warriors ran rampage, following the command of the gamma.

'Damn it! Your body is so weak!'

Cane could hear the lycan's voice in his head when the black wisp filled a large area in this mountain. If this black wisp was Lu's soul, Cane thought it could cover the entire mountain.

In that case, it was not a matter of whether that old man could extract the lycan out of his body, but it was a matter of how much strength would he have to muster to complete his mission?

Cane didn't think this old dark sorcerer would be able to accomplish it, thus he waited for the right time to attack, once he was depleted from his power.

Lu, obviously, didn't make things easy for him. This creature was extremely stubborn and annoying, but for some odd reason, Cane felt better knowing that.

'I don't want to hear something like that from a soul that has been leeching on me,' Cane retorted.

Somehow, there was some point, he could feel Lu's emotions clearer, where he could differentiate his feeling and his own undoubtedly, until he could hear his voice in his head.

What this old dark sorcerer was doing right now, somehow, had blurred the barrier between Cane's consciousness and the lycan's.

'Say that again and I am going to kill you!'

'And then what? Are you going to leech on that old sorcerer?'

'Ugh!'

Cane could feel Lu's disgust toward the old man before them.

'He is not my sweet moon's type.'

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 473: Unrest

UNREST

'He is not my sweet moon's type.'

Once again, Lu irked Cane for his comment. It disgusted the alpha how this cursed creature gave his mate a pet name.

However, this was not the right time for that, since Cane could see how the dark wisp had covered the sky and it almost felt like the morning had turned night because of the darkness.

How long it would last? Cane groaned because Lu chose to lay dormant at time like this. He was not sure why the lycan pulled back when this old man told him to do so.

Because of the darkness, the forest had turned very eerie, it was exceptionally very quiet, as if everything stayed still and the time stopped ticking.

'Don't you want to do something?' Cane asked. It took forever if he had to wait until that dark sorcerer drained from all of his power in order to try to extract Lu from him. He needed to find Iris, though she was with the other four warriors, it still didn't sit well with Cane to not be close with her.

'I am doing something,' Lu said simply.

'I will not tell you.' If he was not only a soul without body, you would be able to see how smug the look on his face. 'It will be fun...'

Aliana fought, at least, three beasts at the same time, while the other seven young beasts took one of the warriors that chased after them.

There were around eleven to twelve Blue Moon warriors that managed to catch up with them.

'Damn it! What Ethan is doing? Why there are so many beasts manage to catch up with us?!' Aliana thought to herself, irritated, but in truth, she was worried something really bad happened to the gamma.

Or was the Blue Moon warrior also split into two group, just like them to take precaution? After all, they had learned a thing or two about their strategy.

It was pretty obvious how the young beasts lacked of fighting experience, as it didn't take a while for them to be overwhelmed, but they didn't back down at all. They were snarling and growling at their opponent, in which had bigger bodies than them.

Not to mention they were in advantage, since they could communicate with each other through mindlink, which was something that the warrior from the Howling Wolf pack couldn't do, so their attack was way more coordinated.

Blood was everywhere and with the sky was covered by dark wisp, the fight looked even more vicious with the thick smell of blood in the air.

Two young beasts had died and three of the Blue Moon warriors lost their lives in Haco's hand, while the other were still fighting their attacker.

The sorcerer looked so distraught to see this dark wisp, as he was torn between staying in this fight and helped them all, or rushed toward Cane, the source of this dark wisp.

However, he couldn't use all the magic stone he had, since he would be useless without it, even when he could reach Cane. Without his power, he was only an ordinary human. As a magic user, they were very depended on magic stone and this was one of their bottlenecks. They didn't have unlimited power, not like the divine power, which only belonged to the Serafim.

"Damn it! Can't they just die?!" Haco was frustrated. He used too much of his magic stone in this battle to help, thus soon, he would be useless.

One of the young warriors with blood coated his fur came to him and bit his hand lightly, as if telling him to follow him.

"What about the other?!" Haco was frustrated, yet the young beast was persistent for him to detach himself from this battle.

Thinking they could handle the rest of the attacker and right now Cane's matter regarding this black wisp was way more urgent, Haco followed the young beast to get away from there.

He knew this must be the lycan. Something must have been happening with the lycan and Haco dreaded for the worst.

"Hey... don't run too fast... I am too old... to sprint with you..." Haco was panting, he felt so exhausted, his old body had gotten more and more weaker.

He hated to admit it, but it seemed what the lycan said was right, he wouldn't have a long time left, ever since the cursed creature was no longer part of him.

"Boy, slow down... I can't run as fast as you... I am so old for this..."

The young beast stopped, whimpering, as he looked around in frustration, worried their attacker would catch up with them. He knew, he was not the best warrior out there and he barely able to defend himself against his attacker.

The young beast nudged Haco's hip, gestured for him to ride him.

"No way... you are drenched with blood." Yet, Haco changed his mind immediately when this young beast growled, irritated. "Okay, okay."

Carrying someone in their beast form, meant the beast had a complete trust on the other person, since they would be in vulnerable state and how they exposed their neck to someone else, since the beast allowed them to wrap their arms around their neck, in which a forbidden gesture, almost like a sin for a shifter.

Clumsily, Haco climbed the beast's back and grimaced when his fur was slippery because of blood.

"What are you staring at?" A young man, who looked so refined approached a young woman, who had been staring at the sky in the distance, today was a bright day and the sunlight was scorching hot, yet this young woman, seemed not to care much about that.

"Something is going on in this continent, I can feel it," she said in small voice. Her hair fluttered in the wind, it was bright color of red and she looked so pale.

"You need to come inside, this sea wind is not good for your body," he said with thick concern in his voice.

The two of them were standing at the deck, which had taken them across the sea for a week. They would arrive in the Oregan Continent soon.

"You shouldn't have come personally here, you know." He took her hand and despite his rough appearance with a huge sword on his hip and armor that covered his body, he was extremely gentle with her. He touched her, as if she was going to break, if he was not being careful. "You can send one of us to deal with this mess."

The young woman smiled warmly. "You don't need to worry. After all, I have been doing nothing ever since I got this title," she said, but her blue eyes dimmed when she continued. "I am the weakest Serafim in the story. I have not yet accomplished anything."

"Stop saying that, Abby," the young man looked dissatisfied with her statement. He would only call her by her name when it was only the two of them, otherwise, it would count as disrespect. "You are sick, no one should complain about that."

"I feel like being sick is one of my favorite excuses," she mumbled under her breath. She had heard that for as long as she could remember and she grew sick of it too.

"Don't think too much and rest, we will arrive soon. You need to take care of your body," he said gently. He led her to her bedroom.

"Okay..." Abby nodded weakly, but once it was only the two of them inside the room, she turned around and wrapped her arms around his neck and kissed his lips.

"Abby!" He called her name with a mixed of warning and helplessness. "There are so many people in this ship."

"But, it's only the two of us inside this room, Liam," Abby retorted and then frowned. "You don't want to?"

Liam gritted his teeth. He knew it was forbidden for them to have this sinful relationship, if someone learned about this, they would be separated and obviously, there would be no chance for them to meet with each other again.

But...

"You know I always want you, Abby..." Liam sighed and kissed her back.

There were countless eyes that watched how everything unfolded so quickly. They didn't have time to react, neither they could see this coming.

At first, they thought, Redmond would go with the warrior from his pack, betrayed the Howling Wolf pack and Jace was ready to put the blame on himself because he gave Redmond so much trust, especially after he hugged it out with Lyle and the other warrior looked so happy to accept his commander back.

However, the next thing that happened was unthinkable, because once Lyle turned around and had his back against Redmond, he latter pierced his back with his claw and crushed his heart, as he pulled his back bone out of his body.

The force must be so great and not anyone could do such horrifying thing like Redmond did. Hell, even Jace didn't know how to do such brutal thing to his opponent.

Within a second, Lyle's body went limp and he dropped dead to the ground, while Redmond had his spine in his hand. He stared down disdainfully at his second in command.

"I told you not to turn your back against your opponent. You never listen."

And that was the cue to start the unrest, as the royal warrior led the rest of the Blue Moon pack warrior to charge forward, while Redmond was still standing so close to their enemy.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 474: Unrest (2)

UNREST (2)

After killing the traitor, Redmond didn't immediately go back to the safety of the fortress, instead, he shifted into his beast and charged forward.

Damned those people, who had betrayed him and even entertained the idea of sneaking around his back. They thought they could corner him into agreeing to something that they hid from him in the first place.

They didn't heed his words at all for joining Lyle in this messed up campaign with the royal warriors.

"Damn it!" Jace growled loudly when he watched how Redmond started to attack those beasts that came to him. The anger radiated through his whole body, as he didn't back down at all, though he was alone in the frontline. "Is he going to do suicide?!"

Jace saw that reckless action as a stupidity, but there was no way he would let that mad warrior to fight this battle alone, as he jumped down from the fortress and landed in his beast form. He charged forward as well to assist Redmond, while the rest of the Howling Wolf warrior followed him.

Many of them jumped from the fortress and landed in their beast form, they used the momentum to speed toward the battle that was going to happen. This was unavoidable.

Thankfully, what Redmond did, had decline their moral and they were a little bit worry of him, as he fought three beasts at the same time. He became the commander of the Blue Moon warrior not for nothing, as he lived up his title.

He was furious and felt so betrayed.

"Father..." lady Cyan called him, she looked helpless, like a little child, who asked for a little bit attention from their parent. "Father... we need to go... we need to leave this place, this don't look good."

Lady Cyan was worried about her surroundings, she looked around and felt this dreadful feeling crept into her chest when this black wisp looked like a bad omen for her. She bit her lip to suppress her fear.

"Let's find the woman... I think his mate is more valuable," she said in small voice, trying to give her opinion about this matter. She had not yet explained to her father about what happened and how Iris had resisted her curse, but her father simply didn't want to listen to her, as he deemed his useless daughter's opinion was second best to the matter at hand.

"Shut your fucking mouth!" He hollered to his daughter, which made lady Cyan flinched. She was no longer a child, she had the power of her own in her hand, but still, she feared her father the most. "You are the one, who had created this mess! Useless!"

Lady Cyan lowered her head, she balled her fists tightly beside her body, as she said nothing.

Meanwhile, her father looked like he was going to collapse anytime soon, he looked so pale, as the result how much he forced himself to keep going, though his power depleted rapidly.

On the other hand, Cane was still in the same position, he fixed his eyes on the dark sorcerer, but he would occasionally glance at lady Cyan and the king, who had been forgotten during this whole ordeal. He looked like an odd ornament in this mess, since he didn't do anything and still sit on his horse, which exceptionally calm as well.

"Kill him!" the dark sorcerer said through his gritted teeth. Killing the lycan's vessel would weaken him as well, now the alpha was barely able to sit straight.

Lady Cyan was afraid, the magic that her father perform right now was in a whole different level from her and she didn't want to get caught in it. She didn't dare to approach Cane, but she didn't want to use magic on him too, since it could get tangled with the magic that her father was performing.

"Kill him, you idiot! What are you waiting for? New year?!" the old man barked at her slowness. "Stupid! I can't believe I have such a stupid daughter!"

Afraid she would aggravate her father further, lady Cyan then chose to use magic on Cane, as red wisps appeared from both of her palms and this alerted the alpha.

'If you have some idea, do it now.' Cane communicated with the lycan in his head, as the creature had been entertaining himself to watch how this old man drained himself and his power.

'Don't order me around, I don't like that!'

'Fine. See what Iris will do to you if I am dead.'

The lycan growled and Cane could feel this strange frustration that crept in, the emotions that did not belong to him.

Now the alpha got his tail, he knew how to control this beast, though it irritated him to bring his mate in this kind of negotiation. It irked him to no end when Lu's emotions flooded whenever he mentioned Iris.

Probably, letting that old dark sorcerer extract this annoying lycan would be the best option. Oddly, the lycan thought the same thing, probably letting this ugly lady to kill his vessel, would get him free access to Cane's body forever without any restriction.

Yet, despite what they were thinking about each other, they were still on the same page regarding this whole ordeal.

Right at that moment, lady Cyan directed the red wisp that appeared from her palms toward Cane and whatever the effect that would happen after being hit by it, it obviously wouldn't be good.

At the same time, the black wisp covered Cane's body and deflected the red wisp.

Cane paid close attention to what this lycan could do and what kind of power that he held, since he had been leeching of him and demanded so many things, he wouldn't let him do that for free.

'Can I control the black wisp?'

'Not telling you.'

Cane didn't need to, since he experimented on it by himself. Because the barrier between him and the lycan had faded and their consciousness were so strong, as they could hear each other and Lu's feeling flooded over him way more clearer than before, it was a possibility to be able to control this wisp.

'If the black wisp is your soul, when it suddenly appeared in the past, what's that meant?' Cane asked, all of sudden this question came to his mind out of the blue, as a realization made him frown.

'Not telling you.'

Cane narrowed his eyes when lady Cyan doubled her effort to go through the black wisp that protected Cane. This black wisp was strong.

'Did it appear because you want to see Iris?'

'What's wrong from wanting to see my own mate?' Lu retorted defensively.

If Lu was in any shape or form, Cane would have beaten him up so badly. He remembered how he feared the black wisp would appear whenever he was not with Iris and wreaked his brain to think of the reason why it happened, but when he heard the answer, he really wanted to know, he felt so mad.

For Lu, it was only a playful thing, where he wanted his mate's attention, but for Cane that was a big deal, since the black wisp would appear randomly. He could expose himself as the lycan at that time, especially if it appeared in front of so many people or in an important occasion.

The risk was so great if Cane was exposed, but for Lu, it was nothing, since all he wanted was his mate.

Enraged and annoyed, somehow, Cane got a grip of the black wisp and wrapped it around lady Cyan's body.

The lady looked terrified. "Father!" she screamed, afraid when her vision turned blurry and everything became so dark. She couldn't see anything.

On the other hand, not so far from there, Haco and the young beast were fighting a Blue Moon pack warrior, who managed to race toward them, breaking through Ethan and Aliana's defense.

Thankfully, Haco was there and killed their opponent, as the young beast was too exhausted from carrying the old sorcerer on his back to fight a full grown up, battle hardened warrior.

However, Haco's power was depleted and the young warrior shifted back into his human form, his body limped to the ground, as he fell face first.

"Boy!" Haco immediately approached the young man, who looked no older than sixteen years old. His young face covered in blood, so did his body, as three big and deep claws mark on his back, oozing out blood.

"Sir, I can't carry you... but, I can sense the alpha is so close... you need to hurry to him," he said in weak voice, as his eyelids fluttered, he felt exhausted and sleepy.

"No, no, no, no!" Haco was frantic. "Don't sleep, don't close your eyes! Damn it! Damn it!" He was not a healer, he wouldn't be able to make him healed himself faster before he lost so much blood. "What to do, what to do?!" He wanted to use his magic, but all he knew was to add more pain to someone, instead of healing them.

"Sir, go..."

"Oh! Don't you dare to die on me!" This boy was so young, but he fought bravely.

His eyes fluttered sleepily, but he grabbed Haco's sleeve and spoke softly. "I have a little sister in the orphanage... tell her I am not going to see her soon, tell her I am in an important mission... tell her I am a brave warrior and... I am entrusted with an important mission..." his voice became weaker and weaker.

"You are a brave warrior, your sister will be proud of you."

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 475: I Only Want To Hear His Voice

I ONLY WANT TO HEAR HIS VOICE

Haco held this young boy's hand, as he kept mumbling something incoherently about his sister, it seemed, she was the only person that he cared and worried the most, even in his last breath.

"Don't worry, young man, I will look after your sister, you can rest now," Haco said in comforting tone. Patting his shoulder to ease him. "I will tell your sister how brave you are, you can go in your long mission now."

With that, the young warrior's breathing became even and gradually, he breathed his last, while Haco held his hand.

Though, his life was so short and he had so much worried about his little sister, Haco was there to make sure he didn't die alone and he knew that his sister would be taken care for.

Haco felt so helpless. He should have killed the beast sooner, but their enemy moved so fast and he couldn't catch up with his movement, especially when he felt like he grew weaker and weaker day by day.

The old sorcerer used to live on his own, thus to have this kind of attachment to someone else made him realized how lonely and alone his life had been in the past five decades. It didn't mean he regretted it, but it showed him how to be human again and have someone to be cared of.

Haco took off his cloak and put it on his body, before he continued to walk ahead and find Cane. He suppressed his sadness.

In the end, there was nothing he could do to change the outcome. This young warrior fought bravely. He deserved so much more, so did those people, who died in a battle.

With difficulty, Haco moved closer toward the source, where this black wisp appeared, as he watched how the person that he thought, he would never see again was there.

"Zeke?" Haco called his name in disbelieve, but his voice was too weak and this person was too preoccupied to perform his dark magic on the alpha to be able to notice his presence.

Zeke was his senior in the Holy Kingdom when Haco was still sorcerer there. They were so close at that time, as they became like a brother to each other.

More than fifty years had passed now and their appearance had changed, but Haco still managed to recognize him in a glance.

Never in his wild imagination, he would think Zeke would become a dark sorcerer. He was the most brilliant young sorcerer at that time and it was an honor for Haco to be close with him.

Too shocked to react, Haco didn't do his task immediately, as he stared at his senior in the distance, while the alpha was still kneeling on the ground not too far.

Right at that time, all of them were startled when they heard loud sound of footsteps in the distance. From the sound of it, you could tell, there were more than five creatures that dashed toward this direction. Their heavy footsteps also disclosed that it was not an ordinary creature, as the ground was shaking.

It was most likely monsters, but of course, not the small one....

"Oh, shit! What now?!" Haco cursed under his breath when he watched the vogue figure of Geromine and Vermeyes among the trees, as the latter's head appeared on top of the trees within the cloud of the black wisp. "Shit! Shit!"

Haco immediately rushed toward Cane and performed his own magic. He pushed back thousand of question in his mind about what the reason Zeke was here and what he was doing on Cane. Did he know about the lycan in him?

Iris felt like she lived in flashes of memories, as she walked through one after the other, she felt like she revived the lost memories that she had never had.

"Serafim... how can you do that?" Rei was in disbelieve, he looked at the woman in front of him and was not sure how to feel and what to do upon hearing the revelation from her. "You shouldn't have done that... you know that against the nature."

Na lowered her head, she was so ashamed of her action, she didn't dare to look at Rei in the eyes. Tears streamed down her face and the sight made Rei became even more helpless, as he felt his heart softened.

"You create a chance for Decratic to be revived again, you know that, right?"

"I know." Na's voice was so low, it sounded like a whisper, but in this empty room, which only the two of them, it was loud and clear enough for Rei to understand what kind of great offense the Serafim had done.

"Na, you know that after what you have done, there will be another Serafim that appeared, until Decratic is destroyed completely, only then the circle will stop." Rei only wanted to make sure that she understood the consequences of her action.

"I know." Na's voice was shaking.

"The Serafim that comes after you will not be as powerful as you, Na... you know that."

Na nodded, she felt even more ashamed and guilty when Rei said it clearly the consequences of her reckless and impulsive decision.

"In that case, how can the other Serafim destroy Decratic?" Rei looked helpless and frustrated, he wanted to hug her so tightly to ease her pain, but it was not appropriate for him to do so. He cared for her more than anything else in this world, more than the Holy Kingdom itself.

He would be more than willing to go to hell if that was her order.

This level of loyalty was something that Na knew really well from him, that was why, she confessed this deepest and darkest action that she had ever done as a Serafim to him. She didn't have strength to bear it alone.

"Why are you putting yourself in this situation?"

"I want to hear his voice. I only want to hear his voice..."

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 476: Awesome

AWESOME

"I want to hear his voice. I only want to hear his voice..."

Na knew the reason she had, sounded so absurd and didn't make any sense at all. It didn't even worth the trouble that she created for this whole realm to not destroy Decratic completely, to give that evil soul to be revived again, only for her selfish and foolish wish to be able to see her love one.

Because her and Decratic existence tied together, if there was still a chance for the latter to be revived, so did the former.

"I have known this since the very beginning that the lycan is a bad news for you," Rei said through his gritted teeth. He didn't like the lycan, but he couldn't do anything since Na looked so happy whenever she was with him, she looked so radiant and even more beautiful than she already was.

It almost looked like there was a whole stary sky in her eyes whenever she looked at that cursed creature.

Rei knew, he had to stop her. He should have stopped her before it was too late and the lycan affected her, but he would have never thought the affect of that lycan would be so great on Na.

She literally took the risk of the world to be destroyed, just for what? To hear his voice? To meet with him one more time? That was a measly excuse and didn't worth the risk.

However, in this point, that was absolutely not how Na felt about it. She was desperate and heartbroken, which led to the decline of her health, especially after she lost so much of her energy after a harsh war against Decratic.

It killed Rei to watch her died a little bit inside in every second of her existence.

"If the time could be reversed and I have a choice to choose not to meet with Lu, I will not take that." Na lifted her head and looked at Rei through her tears. "I am willing to go through hell only to meet with him again."

"NA!" Rei grabbed her shoulder and shook her weak body. "You are the Serafim! You shouldn't have such feeling! Your heart should be pure and he introduce you to hatred, anger, vengeance and all the negative feelings you shouldn't have!"

Na smiled sadly. Rei was right, as the Serafim, she shouldn't have that kind of feelings. "But, he makes me happy." In her bland life, where she was demanded to be a forgiving person and not allowed to get angry no matter what, Lu was full of emotions.

He was like fireworks in the bland and calm night sky. Before Na could realize it, she was drawn into his flames that burned so bright. It was so fascinating to see how free his emotions were.

This feeling was something that no one could understand, neither they could give it to her, since they respected her so much, it felt like a burden for Na.

"He turned you into someone that I don't know," Rei said viciously, he let go of her shoulder, as if his palms were on fire.

"Maybe, you don't know me to begin with," Na replied, she stared at Rei's green eyes, the color was so beautiful, like moss, but right now those eyes were so dim. "The whole Serafim thing burden me, Rei. I want to be treated normal and live a normal life..."

Rei's jaw clenched tightly, his golden hair shone brightly under the light. Na complimented his hair color the first time they met.

"You need to rest, Serafim. This whole thing must have taken a toll on you."

Na looked so disappointed to hear that, she pressed her lips tightly and the silence that descended inside this room was so suffocating.

"You have never seen me as I am."

Rei narrowed his eyes and then what happened next was something that Na didn't expect at all, as her protector leaned over and pressed his lips against hers. It last only for a brief second before he pulled himself back again.

"I am afraid, you will not like it if I see you without the Serafim's attribute."

And after saying that, Rei left. His steps were so light like feather. He looked like floating instead of walking.

Rei was the Serafim only protector, her shadow protector, the only person, who was responsible for her safety and wellbeing, someone, who would throw himself through fire without a second thought only to save her.

But for Rei, Serafim or not, he would go through hell for Na...

And that was the last memory that was shown to Iris.

Cane watched countless beasts surrounded them and this forced Zeke to stop performing his dark magic in order to extract the lycan out of Cane's body.

'Say hi to my old friend for me,' the lycan said cheerfully and only then Cane realized, Haco had stood behind him and created a barrier around them to protect them from the monsters.

"Cane! Get up! We need to get out of here! The barrier will not last for long, I have used too many of magic stones on my way here!" Haco said frantically when the monsters started to attack them.

Lady Cyan and Zeke were busy to protect themselves, they forgot about the existence of the king, as it didn't take long for those vicious monsters to tear him apart, but even in the brink of death, Aeon's expression remained the same. There was no scream or any noise came from him when his chest was ripped apart, so did his limbs and another part of his body.

The monsters literally shredded him.

'Great! Tear him up! Rip him up! Don't let that stupid creature to reproduce again!' Lu was so cheerful to witness everything unfolded.

Yet, Cane sensed something else from this whole situation. 'Is it you? Who summoned those monsters?' he could feel Lu's smugness rolled over his whole body.

'My power is awesome, right!?'

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 477: New Moon

NEW MOON

"Father! I can't see anything!" Lady Cyan was frightened by the darkness that engulfed her, as black wisp came from her mouth and ears.

She dropped to her knees and then sobbed, while still trying to defend the barrier that they had created earlier to prevent them from being shredded by the monsters like the king.

"Father! I can't see anything! What happened to me?!" Panic washed over her whole being, as her whole body was trembling.

"Shut up! Shut up!" Zeke barked at his daughter. He felt like she was a huge burden now, he hated it when his people showed weakness. "Shut up or I will be the one, who will kill you!"

This was not the first time for Cyan to hear the way her father talked to her harshly and cursed without any scrupulous.

Therefore, she knew better not to make him even more upset than he already was.

Biting her tongue, Cyan continued to strengthen their protection blindly, while her father tried to kill the monsters that threatened to break their barrier.

On the other hand, probably, for the first time in his life, Cane couldn't care less about the monsters that surrounded them, as his mind was preoccupied by another matter.

It was the lycan. All this time, it was this creature that had summoned those monsters every now and then.

When Cane shifted into his lycan for the first time, he would be in the Goffa mountain and stayed away from people, as the lycan let loose and killed a few monsters that he could find.

But when Cane had taken over the Blue Moon pack, Iris was there, where he realized the pain decreased significantly because of her presence, but because of what he did to her, in the second new moon, Cane was alone again, while the third time, the monsters broke through their defenses and harmed a lot of people.

'It's you all this time.'

'Nah. Don't put the blame on me completely, it's not always me.'

Cane ignored that part. 'You let those monsters rampaged.'

'You are not a magic user, your body is not ideal with my power. It's a little bit hard for me to control it.'

Cane was silence after hearing that and it cleared something in his head. 'You are the one, who had summoned the monsters in the palace.'

Lu scoffed. 'You can't put the blame on me completely, shifter. Someone else opened the portal to invite the monsters to come through, I just helped them to make things more excited.'

Cane seemed understood, who that person that Lu talked about. Knowing that merchant's personality and what Iris said about him being a magic user, it was not hard to guess after what Lu revealed.

Meanwhile, Haco was having a hard time to put the barrier around them, he also watched in horror to see how the king met his demise in such brutal way.

"Cane... the king is dead..." His eyes widened, as fear crept in because he could sense the ominous danger in the future. The king was dead in the Howling Wolf pack's territory. What Cane would do to fix such huge trouble? "Cane... what are you going to do?" Haco was frightened with their future, if they had any after this...

"You can't revive him, let him stay dead."

Haco frowned and glanced at Cane, as he saw his golden eyes. He only wanted to make sure that he was talking with Cane and not to Lu.

It seemed, the lycan's sardonic personality rubbed on the alpha a little bit.

"I hope you have a great, great, great plan to explain the death of the king in your territory and how his mistress turned into a dark sorcerer." Haco didn't realize it in the beginning, but it seemed, lady Cyan was Zeke's daughter to see the similarity between them. He cursed himself for not realized it soon, but then, how he would know about that?

Cane didn't plan to kill Aeon in this way, but after the king learned about the lycan and how he was actually controlled by lady Cyan, Aeon was no longer held value in Cane's eyes, because the real threat here was those father and daughter before him.

With how everything had turned out, Aeon was not a problem, he was only a puppet. After all, Cane didn't intend to let anyone, who learned about the lycan out of this mountain with their lives.

Cane also was not really worried about Iris, since she was not too far and he still could sense her scent. She was still with the other four warriors, which whom, he would deal with them later.

"Father, we need to leave," lady Cyan said through her gritted teeth, as she was having a hard time to keep up the barrier. She only had encountered monsters a handful time and all those times, she would have the royal guards to deal with these nasty creatures.

Zeke growled dangerously. He didn't want to leave. He wanted to take that lycan with him. He would be the perfect offering for his master.

However, his daughter was right, these monsters were too much, still, he didn't want to budge. His eyes fixed on Cane greedily. He had been wanting to get his hand on this lycan for so long.

He didn't even recognize Haco as one of his juniors from decades ago. Someone that he had tricked to get to the shrine of the lycan.

A little bit far from them, the four warriors were on alert when a horde of monsters swarmed a large area of the mountain, while the ominous dark wisp still hung above their head.

"What is actually going on?" Oliver couldn't comprehend the situation, he couldn't wrap his head around the fact their alpha was actually the lycan. He still hanged up with that revelation and now these monsters.

Thankfully, none of the monsters came toward their direction, as they hid inside a small cave, a little bit higher, where from this vantage point, they could see everything was a little bit clearer, though the black wisp still obstructed his vision, but he still could see Haco put on barrier around him and the alpha, who had shifted back into his human form.

Dyne and Oliver were in their beast form, so they could act fast if there was any danger came toward them, while Eron took care of Iris. She was still unconscious after whatever thing that lady Cyan did to her. Her face was pale and she was sweating, despite her body was so cold.

Meanwhile, alpha Dristan's mistress, was sitting on the corner of the cave, curling herself, trembling in fear. She was too shock to speak and despite all the torture she had gone through, she had never been so scared for her life like right now.

"We need to go back to the pack," Eron said, he tried to wipe Iris's sweat with his cloak, but his cloak was so dirty. He didn't want to use it on her.

"I don't think the pack is safe," Oliver said. He frowned.

"What do you mean?" Eron growled, he didn't want to hear another trouble again when they had already enough. All of them were still shaken from what had happened, especially with the fact their alpha was a lycan.

Did he get curse when he tried to save Iris? Was that the reason why he could shift into a lycan? They were not even sure how this lycan things worked and how one could become a lycan.

"If the king has planned this whole thing out, do you think our pack will be spared?" Oliver hated the idea and he wished he was wrong, even if he was right, he prayed Jace could do whatever it needed to protect their pack and their people.

Silence descended in that small cave, while the monsters were still running rampant below them.

To their surprised and utter disbelieve, the monsters kept coming, as if they were being led to come to this place and the three magic users showed their greatest power to be able to stand for so long against this vicious force.

Everything lasted until the sun down and the night came. Tonight, was a new moon and for those people, who knew about Cane and the lycan, they completely forgot about this fact, so did the alpha himself.

Cane looked up to the sky and felt a surge of energy spiraled in his blood, as the lycan became stronger and pushed him down once again, as Lu resurfaced and at the same time, Iris finally opened her eyes.

"Luna Iris!" Eron exclaimed in joy and worried in his voice. He looked relief to see Iris finally regained her consciousness.

Meanwhile, Dean and Dyne shifted back into their human form and approached Iris along with Oliver.

"How are you feeling, Luna? Do you feel any pain?" Eron asked worriedly. If it was not the luna, he would check her himself, but thankfully, he knew better not to touch her.

Iris blinked her eyes and looked around. It was not so dark here, but one thing that Iris realized was; she was no longer as afraid as usual and somehow, this darkness was so comforting. It was weird feeling from someone, who had been traumatized to be in a dark place.

"Where is Cane?" Iris asked, while Eron helped her to sit down and give her a waterskin, so she could drink some water.

It was Oliver, who came to her with stern look on his face.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 478: New Moon (2)

NEW MOON (2)

Iris thought, she would be in another memory of the first Serafim again, but when she saw Eron, she knew the long dream had ended and with this newly found knowledge about the past, she felt so dispirited, as Na's sadness and helplessness affected her so greatly.

It was so crazy to think the first Serafim, someone, who should have protected this realm from Decratic, was actually the reason why the evil creature could be revived once again and brought the same chaos like what happened more than five hundred years ago.

The story would repeat once again.

"Luna, are you okay?" Eron helped her to sit down and this snapped Iris back to reality.

She felt like she was still dreaming, since her dream felt so real and she knew what kind of consequences that Na must to go through after her impulsive decision. Her sadness and longing for Lu was so clear, that was the purest emotions that Iris had ever felt.

No matter how ridiculous it sounded and how many hells she had to go through, she still wanted to meet Lu for the last time.

But, all Iris had was only her memories and... her power? Iris was not sure about that. What she had about Na, was not like how the lycan attached his soul to Cane.

"Where is Cane?" Iris asked, she shook her head to get her clarity back.

"The alpha is the lycan," Oliver said sternly. It was not a question, but a statement, his expression was so stern, you could see how he clenched his jaw uncomfortably, though the cave was so dim. "Do you know about that?"

Iris remembered what happened before she fell unconscious, the lycan must have come out and they witnessed it with their own eyes.

After what she did to Cane, it was not strange to have the lycan to come out even if it was not the new moon. Somehow, she had disrupted the order.

"Yes." Iris lifted her head and looked at Oliver in the eyes, but when she wanted to say something again, she frowned. She could see it and it shocked her.

Iris could see Oliver's wolf spirit!

She didn't know how to do it before, but right now, it came to her naturally, as natural as her breathing. She looked around her and for her utter disbelief, she could each of their wolf spirit.

It was like a wisp that rested on their shoulder, in shape and color of their beast. As strange as it might be, Iris felt calm enough not to show any emotions on her face. She composed herself well for someone, who was overwhelmed by a lot of information at once. She felt like she was drowning with so many questions in her mind.

On the other hand, hearing Iris's confirmation, all of them gasped loudly, as they frowned their brows in disbelief.

"No way..." Eron muttered.

"The alpha will explain more about it," Iris said and pushed herself off the ground, she wanted to see Cane. She wanted to make sure he was fine.

The first Serafim's emotion is still lingered, thus Iris knew how much pain she would be if something bad happened to Cane.

Lu was strong enough to protect his vessel and that was the only comfort that Iris had.

"Luna, how long do you know about this?" Oliver asked, he grabbed Iris's hand to stop her from leaving the cave, while the other three warriors were still reeling with that revelation. "What happened to alpha Cane? Is it because he saved you before, he is being cursed to be a lycan too?"

In Oliver's mind, he thought, the first lycan and Cane were two different entities and he still entertained the idea the alpha was being cursed when he tried to save Iris when she was kidnapped by the lycan before.

No. Now, Oliver thought about this, Iris had been kidnapped by the lycan twice. What did it mean?

"The lycan you saw the first time it appeared in the Howling Wolf pack and the lycan that was rumored, also the lycan that appeared in the palace, all of them were the same. It was Cane." Cane would explain this sooner or later, there was no way to hide this fact anymore and for what he would do to them, Iris hoped they could accept this just like how Redmond and Grace did.

"There is no way the alpha is the lycan!" Oliver was in denial and he didn't want to accept that fact. That was not the fact and explanation he was looking for.

"If you don't believe me, no matter what I said will not have any affect on you," Iris said calmly, she looked so different, as if something had shifted inside of her from that timid luna they knew. "I am going to look for Cane, all of you can stay here if you want."

This was not the time to ponder over that matter. They really needed to get their priority straight.

"Luna, I am going with you!" Eron said, as he stood up and rushed toward Iris's side, so did Dyne.

But, Dean and Oliver still stayed in their place. They still had not yet decided what they were going to do.

"Luna Iris, how long you have known about this?"

Iris turned around and stared at Oliver right in his eyes, she could see his wolf spirit became restless, which meant, he had an internal turmoil with his mind and heart.

The knowledge about it came naturally to Iris, as if she had studied about this somewhere.

"I have known about this since the very beginning," Iris replied curtly. She knew it was not right to feel so petty for knowing something about Cane that they didn't, especially when in their mind, they knew their alpha more than her, but she couldn't help it.

When Iris was about to walk away again, Oliver called for her one more time. "Is it you the reason why the alpha became the lycan?"

"I have nothing to do with that. Cane has been a lycan even before we met." Iris didn't want to explain that part. Let Cane decide how he wanted to tell the story.

But, because of the tension and how disoriented they were with this whole revelation, no one noticed how Iris interacted with Oliver without even turned her body around and read his lips.

Once Iris stepped outside, she could see the dark wisp had covered the sky, but you still could see the bright moon through it, while the monsters ran rampant below them.

"The alpha is there, the sorcerer creates barrier around them. There are so many monsters, luna, that's why we can't approach them to help. It is dangerous if we..." Eron had not yet finished his sentence when Iris walked toward that direction. "Luna, it's dangerous! There are so many monsters out there!"

"It's okay," Iris said calmly. "Can you help me to get down? My dress makes it hard for me to climb down."

Eron was stunned. Was this the same luna they had known? She actually wanted to go over to those monsters? Did she hurt her head so bad into thinking she actually could find even a goblin?

"Luna! You can't go over there!" Dyne said worriedly. "We don't think we can protect you from those monsters! The alpha will be so mad if something happened to you!"

They refused to help Iris to climb down the hill and this made Iris was not happy.

"Something is completely wrong with your people!" Jace said to Redmond, as they shifted back into their human form to communicate, since it was hard for them to talk with each other when they were in their beast form. "There was no way they are this strong!"

Redmond was irritated, in another occasion he would take offense when Jace said something that indicated his men were weak, but right now, he agreed with the beta.

His men and the royal warriors were ridiculously so strong. Whether it was their speed, their healing ability and their strength, they excelled in all aspect, making them looked like new warriors that fought against the real one.

There were so many people had died and it was only a matter of time before they could ransack inside the Howling Wolf pack and killed their pack member.

Right now, the people had been evacuated to a safe place, but Jace couldn't find his sister and this bothered him. Aliana should be in charge to evacuate the people in the orphanage.

"Dark magic. I am sure it has something to do with dark magic," Redmond said.

Having a long journey with Cane and was exposed with a lot of dark magic that happened around that period of time, making him thinking about it the first thing Jace pointed out the obvious different of strength between them.

"What do you mean?"

"They shouldn't be able to shift into their beast if they consumed Rottingbane regularly, but the fact they are not even able to shift into their beast, but also became so strong, it must be something to do with dark magic, you can't rule out the possibility!"

But right at that time, they could hear a long howl, followed by the others, it was a signal from the other warrior that their enemy managed to force themselves into their pack.

And needless to say, there were so many of them, their number almost the same like in the beginning of the battle, as they were barely able to be killed.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 479: A Horrendous Night

A HORRENDOUS NIGHT

"Damn it! Damn it!" Jace growled when he heard the howling in the distance, as he gritted his teeth and stared at the sky. It was new moon. He was worried about Cane too and what happened with him, but right now he couldn't think about anything else, aside from how to survive this battle.

Those warriors almost immortal! How they couldn't die? Unless, they cut their head off in one clean move or ripped their heart apart, they would heal so fast, even for a shifter, the speed of their healing was insane.

In the distance, a warrior shifted back into his human form and approached Jace and Redmond hastily, his expression was a sheer of panic and mortified. "Beta Jace!" he called with shaking voice. "The enemy has managed to break into the pack and now they marched toward the pack house!"

"What about the pack member, have they all been evacuated?"

"Yes," he replied, but then he looked hesitant.

"What is it? Do you still have time to be hesitant to tell something at time like this?!" Redmond snapped, he was extremely agitated. He was so hurt of the betrayal, but to kill those people, whom he had been with for decades still didn't settle well with him.

However, the situation forced him to do so and he knew, he did the right thing. He knew where he stood and he made it clear.

The warrior glanced at Redmond and spoke with a little bit of hesitation. "I think your warrior knew where the safe place, it doesn't matter if we evacuated them, if they are going to kill us all, it will only a matter of time before they found the rest of the pack member and slaughtered them."

That was true. If their intention was to execute them, they wouldn't spare a single soul and now with the alpha was away and the constant death in their part, their moral decreased significantly, though Jace tried to keep it up, but it was clear to see how the beta was also under distress.

"The front warrior will not be able to hold them back if they are already inside the pack!" Redmond stated the obvious, as all of them could hear the loud sound of battle was moving closer rapidly.

The air was contaminated with thick metallic scent and the ground was stained by their decapitated bodies. They were going to be defeated if they couldn't stop them, but then, there was nothing they could do to fight such warriors that was hard to be killed.

"Pull back and concentrated the defense around the valley, we will defend the safe place!" Jace growled the order. There was no guarantee they would be able to save their pack member, neither they had a chance to fight them off for long, since their number had decreased significantly.

But at the very least, they tried until the reinforcement came, if there was any, or until their last breath.

"Yes, beta!" The warrior immediately shifted back and rushed away to relay the order to the frontline warriors.

After that, Jace sighed deeply. "Thank you for standing with us." He patted Redmond's shoulder, but the warrior immediately swatted his hand.

"Don't talk in that tone with me, you jinx me," he grumbled. "The battle has not yet done. There is still hope, let's go!"

The difference between Redmond and Jace was probably because of their alpha.

When Cane was very presence for his pack member and would lead them into whatever murky water they were going through, which boosted their moral with only his presence, Gerald was not like that to his warrior, he used to hide and let himself be protected.

Therefore, at time like this, Jace was a little bit down without Cane, so did the rest of the pack, especially with their constant lost, but it was not the same for Redmond, since he used to have a coward as an alpha, who would hide in the safe place and couldn't care less about his people, so with or without the alpha's presence, he could keep his moral, though the situation was not in their favor.

Jace followed Redmond and shifted into his beast, as he led the warriors to rush back to the valley. This was their last chance and he prayed Will would arrive soon with the reinforcement.

"Gamma Ethan... I can't feel my legs..." Joel whimpered, tears pooled in his eyes and his bloody face looked panic, but there was nothing he could do, except laid down on the hard ground.

"It's okay, Joel, it's okay boy. You will be fine, you only need to rest and let your body to heal, okay?" Ethan caressed his head.

This young warrior had come between Ethan and a hard blow that their enemy launched. It was a sneak attack and Ethan didn't realize it, since he was occupied by three beasts.

"Rest for a while, okay?" Ethan said in comforting tone, he tried to focus on Joel and didn't look around, because he knew, the sight would devastate him.

"I am sleepy..."

"It's okay, you need to rest."

Joel closed his eyes and Ethan clenched his jaw tightly, he glanced at Joel's legs. Both of his legs were destroyed and he was afraid for the worst. Even if he survived, there was no way to safe his legs and in that case, he would no longer part of the warrior from the Howling Wolf pack, in which he took so much pride in it.

"Rest well, boy, rest well... everything will be fine," Ethan chanted, as he took his hand and patted it.

From eight young warriors, Ethan brought with him, six of them died during the fight, but not before they killed at least, one of their enemies.

It would be seven if Joel didn't survive this, while the other one, was sitting at Joel's side silently with his head hung low, while holding Joel's other hand and tears fell from his eyes, but he didn't make any noise.

This young warrior was covered with blood and wound.

It was a horrendous night...

Eron and Dyne followed behind Iris, as they couldn't let her go alone toward the horde of monsters, while Dean and Oliver walked ahead of them.

They left Chrystal, the mistress of alpha Dristan alone in the cave, because she was too afraid to step out of that place and probably it was for the best, since the monster gathered at the one place, there was no imminent danger she would face if she stayed there.

"What are you planning to do, luna?" Dyne asked, he couldn't stop frowning when he saw the black wisp and the holler of the monster in the distance.

Iris didn't say anything, she kept walking with expressionless face, she was deep in thought, as she recalled all the memories that was given to her a moment ago. Her dream was so real to be called a dream.

It felt so long, she almost thought, she lived in different era and had a completely different life there, after she watched how the first Serafim made one mistake after the other because she lost Lu.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 480: The Final Showdown

THE FINAL SHOWDOWN

The Serafim was a holy creature, blessed with divine power, which was the power that only belonged to her, she was the embodiment of the pureness and compassion, someone without any sense of hatred, neither anger.

But at the same time, she had human heart, which was the contradiction of the purpose of her existence, in which Na was struggling to keep her heart pure when she met with Lu.

That cursed creature was so... alive.

The way the lycan was angry for her and was being upset, showing his emotions freely, which was something that a Serafim couldn't do, was a comforting thing for Na in a twisted way. She lived through Lu emotionally, until she grew attached to him, so did the lycan.

Thus, when she lost him, there was nothing that mattered in her eyes anymore. The pain was so great, she couldn't endure it.

Therefore, she used the forbidden magic, she divided her power to five holy warriors, who would protect the next Serafim after her. Since Decratic was not completely destroyed, the circle of Serafim would continue.

This was the truth that no one knew aside from Na and Rei. People thought, the Serafim existed to keep the balance and destroy the black magic, but as it turned out, the circle of the Serafim was a result of Na's selfish decision.

While her divine power was divided into five, Na begged Rei to take the essence of her life before she died...

And now, the essence of the first Serafim's life was within Iris. It was not sure how she ended up with it, since the memory stopped when Rei took Na's lifeforce.

Iris stared at both of her hands. She had her essence, but she didn't have all of her power. What she had was not complete.

"How can you do that?!" Oliver was on alert when he saw how Iris's hands exuded soft white light, as if she was holding illuminous pearls in her hands.

Iris lifted her head and looked at Oliver. "I don't have time to explain this to you." Probably the right words were; she didn't know how to or where to begin with the explanation, since this was something that even Iris still tried to wrap her head around it. "We need to find Cane first."

Oliver clenched his jaw and didn't say anything anymore, while the rest didn't dare to make a peep. The more they walked toward the horde of the monster, the more they could hear vicious growls and this dampened their spirit.

Iris could see how their beasts became restless when they came closer to their destination and the deafening roars filled the air. Iris felt a little bit headache to hear such clamorous sound, since her life had been very quiet and this sound irritated her.

"We can't move further than this," Oliver said, as they hid themselves between the tree. Because of the dark wisp, they were hidden so well. No one would pay close attention to where they were hiding, unless there was monster came toward their direction.

However, Iris didn't feel the need to hide, as she walked ahead, emerged from the shadow of the trees before they could stop her.

Before her eyes, she watched how the lycan was trying to destroy the barrier that was put by Zeke and lady Cyan. You could see the crack of the barrier and it wouldn't last for long before the lycan managed to get a hold of them.

Meanwhile, the monsters noticed her presence, but for some reason, they ignored her, as they continued to assault the barrier, along with the lycan.

"Lu..." Iris called the lycan. It was new moon and tonight was the time, where the lycan's blood grew stronger and Cane's consciousness laid dormant.

The lycan stopped his attempt and perked his ears when his red eyes found her. Meanwhile, Haco immediately rushed toward her Iris's side and tried to put barrier around her, but he noticed something else, the glow in her hands.

"Kill those people..." Iris said in small voice.

The final showdown would be in this valley, where they had to take advantage of the terrain, because this was the only way for them to be able to fight off those warriors. Their only chance to survive.

As the night grew deeper, their hope faded away as well. They were hanging by a thread, even though there was no glimpse of chance to survive this.

Their enemies were twice in number and strength compared to them and even though the warriors of Red Claw pack that alpha Dristan left behind had helped them, but the help was like a drop of water in the ocean...

This was it.

This would be the end of the Howling Wolf pack. They didn't even know whether their alpha survived or not in the hand of the king.

The battle had happened since this morning and lasted for almost a day now, there was no chance for them to stand this final battle. They were too exhausted, while their opponent seemingly didn't know the word of tired at all.

Jace and Redmond were in their beast form, they stood in front of the warriors, led them in the front line and the beta liked this warrior a little bit now.

Now he understood why Ethan trusted him and actually got along with him really well, despite the bickering here and there.

It was unfortunate their time was so short to know each other. It would be nice if they had a longer time, to know him more.

And when the first beast from the royal warriors charged forward, it was the cue for the rest to follow him and Jace had prepared himself for the worst. He determined to take as many enemies as he could before they took him down.

However, before they could make a contact, suddenly something big and white fell from the cliff, it rolled on the dirt ground and stopped between the two parties, as the furry creature blinked its eyes stupidly.
