

Chapter 892

w(w)W.ñoV©|W@r.m.(c)om

892 SMALL ENTOURAGE FROM HOLY KINGDOM

Cane chuckled when he thought his mate was getting bold with him to get undressed in front of him, but once she was naked, she used her long hair to cover herself. It seemed, Iris got a second thought and was too embarrassed to go through with this trick in front of him.

She blushed, even her chest turned red.

"Come here," Cane said when Iris was considering to put her dress again. He stretched out his hand and helped her to get into the water. She felt so right in his arms, every curve on her body were perfect. "Where are you going? I thought you are trying to seduce me."

Iris pursed her lips. That was the plan, but it didn't turn out as she expected, because suddenly she felt embarrassed with her nakedness.

"You think too much," Iris grumbled, but she allowed Cane to hold her. The water was not cold and the weather was rather warm, as the sunlight basked on their intertwined, naked body. She stared at her mate closely and found herself in awe. Cane was beautiful.

"Do I?" Cane leaned over and kissed her lips. He nibbled and nipped on her, as his hand caressed her bare back. He pressed his body against hers, so she would know how hard he was right now. Well, Iris didn't completely fail to seduce him. In a matter of fact, she would never fail.

Iris gasped when Cane squeezed her bottom, since she didn't open her mouth and once the opportunity came, he plunged his tongue and ravished her.

Iris couldn't protest, because it was she, who lit the fire and now, it was only right for her to take responsibility of the flames.

"Cane..." Iris moaned, she gasped for air and Cane traced down his lips against her neck, biting lightly on his mark. "It's ticklish..." she giggled.

Cane responded by lifting her body, he held her thighs and moved to the nearest rock to press her body against his.

"Comfortable?" Cane asked in low voice, making sure she was not hurt and was fine with this position.

"Hm..." Iris mewled in his arms, as she felt he entered her slowly...

The blissful feeling they felt right now was something that they always loved whenever they were together. They were the salvation for each other in this chaotic world, the world that filled with nasty things, manipulation and schemes.

"I love you, Cane..." Iris heart burst with pleasure when she came undone.

Cane breathed heavily, as he came inside her.

It was not sure how long they were on it or how many times they drew pleasure from each other, but once they were done, Iris was spent and she didn't even get to help Cane to clean himself, instead it was him, who did it for her.

Iris curled herself when Cane tucked her in, he carried her back to their tent after he dressed her and now, his little mate was satisfied. She even was too sleepy to pay attention to her surroundings. Hanna and Amee were still in the tent when Cane returned and the two of them gave the alpha and the luna a knowing look.

Hanna was exceptionally happy because her missy and the alpha finally mended thing between them and their relationship had improved greatly, there was no mistake that the alpha loved her missy so much, watching how he doted on her.

"Look after her," Cane said and then left the tent because there were a bunch of things, he had to take care of, but when he stepped out, Jace approached him and informed him an entourage of Holy Kingdom was already here.

"I think that person named Rei is inside one of the carriages." Jace informed Cane. From afar, they could see the commotion among the knights, as three carriages and people on the horsebacks entered their campsite.

Rei.

It had been a while, since they met each other and the last time Cane saw him was when Iris stabbed him. He hoped, Iris had stabbed him deeper and ended him. W(w).n(o)Ve|w@r.M.(c)om

"What will you do?" Jace asked.

"How is Redmond and Ethan?" Cane stared at the distance. He clenched his jaw, holding back his emotions.

Decratic was the creature they should be worried about, but having your enemy within your people was not a good sign either.

"Redmond marched with warrior from Blue Moon pack, they will be here in three to four days." Jace updated the alpha based on the last letter they received. "I just sent the letter to Ethan through the lizard, he and the merchants will sail from Crystal Moon pack's harbor to Winter Moon, it will take them two to three days to reach us."

"Where is Lou?" Cane asked the troublesome merchant next.

"The last time I saw him, he was in his tent."

Cane nodded. "Ask Aliana to stay with my mate and not to leave her alone no matter what."

"Will do." Jace understood Cane's worry. He had learned the threat that Rei carried with him also the letter about how the Holy Kingdom would annul Abby as the Serafim and claim Iris as the real one.

There was no way in hell, Cane would allow him to do so, especially with their twisted

w(w).m@veLW@r.m.(c)om

norm of giving up the Serafim's daughter to be taken care of for a year.

Cane would absolutely weigh a war before they could touch his daughter, if one of the twins was a girl.

However, Jace had not yet learned about Iris's pregnancy so did her five warriors, only a handful people, who knew about this. Even Aliana didn't dare to talk about Iris's pregnancy carelessly.

"Tell all the warriors to stay alert and avoid any provocation." Cane didn't want them to use this contention to their advantage.

They fought alongside each other to end the war with Decratic, but it didn't mean they were on the same side.

"Yes, alpha."

And after that, Cane went to Lou's tent only to find the merchant was sleeping. He stayed with Iris the whole time during the battle and now, he took his sweet time to nap.

"Wake up," Cane said, he kicked his makeshift bed, but Lou only glanced at him sleepily.

"Get away, I am tired. I need to sleep." Lou started to think to put a protection spell around his tent, so Cane wouldn't be able to enter his private area without his permission. w(w).n(o)Ve|w@r.M.(c)om

But then he remembered how he managed to neutralize the strong protection spell around Winter Moon pack, his spell would mean nothing for him.

The merchant hated the alpha even more.

"Wake up, there is something you need to do," Cane said, he kicked his makeshift bed again and this time, Lou threw away his blanket and sat down, he glared at Cane, he was thoroughly annoyed.

"What?! What now?!" Lou glowered. "I will make one thing clear, I am not your pack member, don't order me around!"

However, right at that time, Dean entered the tent, knowing his alpha was there.

"Alpha, you and sir Lou are expected to be in the strategy tent, people from the Holy Kingdom wanted to meet you both."

"Heaven! My tent is not public area!"