

Chapter 226 Are You Impotent

Mia immediately posted the photo online after she had taken it.

The account she used to post it was a fake account she usually used to say bad things about other celebrities, so she had no fear about anyone finding out that she was the one behind it.

"Shocking news! Loraine and the president of Starlight Entertainment are dating. Loraine has probably used her relationship with this man to gain the means to turn public opinion against Mia. After all, Mia offended her."

This was the caption that Mia put on the video. Her plan was to spread the rumor that Loraine had colluded with the president of Starlight Entertainment to slander her, but people didn't buy it.

She had already been proven to be a bully, so no one would believe her to be innocent.

People's focus was on the photo and they made comments.

"Is it just me, or does the president of Starlight Entertainment look very familiar?"

"He looks like the artist, Mr. T!"

"Though the photo is a little blurry, I'm sure I'm right! The president of Starlight Entertainment is Mr. T."

Almost immediately, people identified Mr. T as the president of Starlight Entertainment.

Mr. T had always kept a low profile and nobody knew where he lived, so fans could only catch glimpses of him in videos taken years before. Now, it was discovered that he was not only the president of Starlight Entertainment but also close to Loraine.

Many fans were very happy with this new piece of news.

Immediately, the internet was swamped with various posters and redesigns of the photo which easily attracted even more attention to Loraine and Mr. T. Before long, the hashtag "Loraine and Mr. T" started trending heavily.

Marco frowned when he saw the trend on Twitter.

He quickly reported a particular poster that suggested that Loraine and Mr. T were in love.

He listed the reason for the report as spreading inaccurate information.

Then he turned to Carl and asked him, "How come you didn't find out that Mr. T is the president of Starlight Entertainment?"

"Mr. T had not come to this city when Starlight Entertainment was acquired. He revealed very little information about himself to the public, so I didn't find out."

Marco said nothing in response, but his expression showed how angry he was.

His anger was directed at Loraine.

Not only had she not come to see him, but she had gone to that entertainment company with Mr. T.

"The internet is now crawling with rumors about Loraine and Mr. T. What should we do?" Carl asked tentatively.

Marco glanced at him with fiery eyes and ordered, "Shut them up."

Then he grabbed his suit and left the office, heading straight to Starlight Entertainment.

Inside the CEO's office of Starlight Entertainment

A group of young, strong men were lined up before Loraine. They were the best of their kind around nowadays.

Loraine surveyed them one by one and occasionally paid extra attention to a few of them.

Meanwhile, Wesley sat lazily on the sofa, watching her with a smile. "Take your pick, Lorrie. Take home any guy you like."

Loraine rolled her eyes at him.

"Stop teasing me. I'm just here to help you. Besides, why would I want a man? The one I married before is still bugging me. I'm not looking for any more trouble."

Loraine was used to Wesley's jokes, so she did not let it distract her from the task at hand.

But the more she looked at these men lined up before her, the weirder she felt.

It seemed the new male artists recently signed by the company were a little too enthusiastic. Some were winking at her, while others were showing off their muscular physiques.

Loraine frowned and made a mental note to eliminate the ones that acted flirtatiously.

Just then, a particularly handsome one among them stepped forward and shyly handed her his business card.

Clearly, these newcomers knew a few things about the basic secrets of the industry.

Loraine was young, beautiful, talented, and had connections with their boss. That was why they were all eager to get closer to her.

But as Loraine stretched out her hand to take the business card, the door was suddenly thrown open. A tall figure marched into the office and put his hand over her eyes.

"Fuck off!" the intruder yelled at the young men.

From the voice, Loraine immediately realized that it was none other than Marco.

She tried to take his hand away from her face, but he refused to budge. Instead, he kept shouting at the men.

"Didn't you hear me? I said, get the hell out of here!"

His face showed his anger and displeasure.

Though he had expected many kinds of crazy scenarios on his way here, none of them could compare to what he had just seen.

The moment he pushed open the door, the sight that met his eyes made him so angry that he nearly exploded.

The men, being young and inexperienced, did not dare to argue with Marco. They all darted out of the office immediately.

Marco finally let go of Loraine after they had all gone.

Wesley, on the other hand, was far from happy. He got up and went to stand beside Loraine. "This is Starlight Entertainment, not Bryant Group. Get out of here right now!"

Marco sneered in response. "Since you're old, I guess you've become impotent. Maybe that's why you're introducing young men to Loraine."

What was Marco thinking?

Loraine was about to explain when Wesley suddenly laughed.

"So what? At least I'm trying to make Lorrie happy. You were married to her for three years. Did you ever satisfy her?"

Loraine coughed in embarrassment at Wesley's blunt statement.

Marco froze in shock and was stunned into silence for the first time in his life.

Wesley added even more salt to injury by looking down at Marco's crotch and sneering disdainfully.

"Seems you're the one who's impotent, after all."

Chapter 227 For Benefits

Marco was furious, but there was nothing he could say.

He couldn't deny it.

During their three-year marriage, he never had sex with Loraine. However, it was not because he was impotent. It was just that there were too many misunderstandings between them. He didn't need to tell that to an outsider, though.

Frowning, Marco ignored Wesley and turned to Loraine. "You need to keep your distance from this guy. I don't think he's a decent man."

Wesley glared at Marco. "Excuse me, what do you mean by that?"

Marco glared right back. "I don't want you to lead Loraine astray. If Loraine wants to branch out into the entertainment industry, I can just set up a company for her."

"Just stop, both of you." Loraine stepped in as she saw that the two men were getting heated.

She massaged her temple tiredly. "Marco, you should stay out of my business. Don't you have work at your company?"

Wesley smiled smugly. "You should mind your business, Marco. Starlight Entertainment is all Lorrie needs. As long as she wants it, my company will be at her service."

To Wesley, what really had his heart was his art career. He left his company to others to manage since he didn't care about it as much. If Loraine wanted the company, he would gladly give it to her.

Wesley's words tugged at Loraine's heartstrings and gratitude filled her.

Ever since she rejoined the Torres family, they had been showering her with unconditional support.

Marco noticed the expression of gratitude Loraine wore, and he got even angrier.

He remembered the time when he tried giving Loraine a diamond mine only to have his gift rejected. However, she accepted a diamond ring from this man so easily.

She was accepting Wesley's help again now, but she once again refused his aid.

His rage grew the longer he thought about it.

Just what was it that made Loraine rely on Wesley so easily?

There was literally nothing Wesley beat him at. Even the support and gifts he offered were measly in comparison to what Marco wanted to give her.

Marco's voice was frigid as he warned Wesley, "You think you can boast just because you have an entertainment company? I can make your company go bankrupt at any time. Hear me well, if Loraine ends up in trouble because of you, consider yourself and your company finished."

Wesley laughed as if Marco had just dropped a one-liner. "Is that a threat?"

Marco's gaze became dangerous. "I know you're not a nobody. But if you get on my nerves, I will erase you completely from this industry."

Wesley stopped laughing at that and became serious, like a cheetah ready to pounce.

"Why don't you try it and see, Marco?"

If she let this go on, Loraine was sure the two would break into a fistfight. She rushed to stand in front of Wesley, dividing the two.

"That's enough, Marco! Stop causing trouble!"

It wasn't that she feared Wesley wouldn't be able to stand up to Marco, but she couldn't stand seeing Marco threaten her family.

Marco's rage and frustration grew as he saw her protecting Wesley again. He gritted his teeth. "Loraine, why are you letting yourself be deceived by this old man? He's a playboy and just messing with you!"

Loraine frowned in confusion. "I think I would know when someone is trying to mess with me. This is Starlight Entertainment. I think you should leave and stop making a scene."

Wesley gave Marco a frigid smile from behind her as well. "Indeed. I'll be forced to call security on you if you don't leave."

Marco's rage knew no bounds as he glared at Wesley, but he knew he had to leave for now. He slammed the door behind him as he left.

Wesley turned to Loraine, smiling. "Marco is funny. It looks like he's trying to get back together with you."

Loraine felt her heart skip a beat.

Why did Wesley say that too?

It took her a moment to collect her thoughts and respond. "I don't think he is. I said Universe Group was going to work with Bryant Group, and I guess that is the reason why he always showed up."

"Are you sure?"

Wesley felt there was more to it.

Anyway, he didn't like Marco, so he didn't press further and just nodded.

Standing in the corner of Starlight Entertainment, Mia smiled at the photos she had just taken on her phone.

She was thrilled that she was able to take these photos.

Her last post on Twitter hadn't caused a stir, but now she had these photos. She wanted to see how Loraine would get out of this now.

Mia couldn't wait to send the photos to influencers.

She was sure that they would be overjoyed to get such scoop.

However, to her disappointment, none of the influencers wanted anything to do with the case once they realized it was going to create trouble for Loraine.

They didn't want to post the photos, even when Mia offered paying double.

Exasperated, Mia kept offering more and more money.

After a while, she got a call.

"You have dirt on Loraine? Sell it to me. What's your price?"

Mia was overjoyed. "I don't need to be paid. All I want is for Loraine's name to be dragged through the mud."

The voice on the phone said, "It's a deal. You have my word, I will destroy Loraine."
