

Married At First Sight Chapter 3421

Married At First Sight Chapter 3421-“If your madam doesn’t ask me to go back, I won’t dare to go back. Going back will only make her even angrier. Call Kathryn and ask her to come back home to check.”

The butler said helplessly, “Okay, I’ll call the young lady now and ask her to come back and take a look.”

After ending the call, Holden pondered why Clarissa was in a bad mood and looked anxious.

Could it be that she has found the man she truly loves?

And it was not Clarissa who found it, but someone from Wiltspoon.

Clarissa’s two nieces were both in Wiltspoon. Although the younger niece had been dead for more than ten years, she left behind two children, one of whom was Liberty, who came to Jensburg.

Her eldest niece, Audrey, was the wife of a businessman in Wiltspoon City.

Audrey was also a legend in the business world at Wiltspoon. She was truly a descendant of the Farrell family. In every generation of the Farrell family, there was at least one daughter who was exceptionally capable.

If it is like this, the Farrell family is about to change hands.

This concerns the future of his Janzen family, and Holden also took it very seriously.

Without caring about anything else, he immediately left the house and asked the driver to take him back to the Farrell family mansion. On the way back to the Farrell family mansion, he called his three sons one by one and informed them to go home immediately.

When Kathryn received the call from the butler, she was still in the president’s office of Queen Enterprise.

Hayden and Kevin returned from their trip.

After knowing that Hayden had returned, Kathryn came over, both to discuss cooperation and to catch up with old friends.

She has had no friends since she returned to the Farrell family.

In the past, she was always looked down upon and bullied at banquets, and she pretended to be weak, so only Hayden would help her.

In her heart, Kathryn considered Hayden a friend.

However, she was the successor of the Farrell family, and Hayden was the future third wife of the York family. Because Serenity was the eldest wife of the York family, Hayden might not regard her as a friend.

Mother came back, and Kathryn knew that she had deliberately not gone home.

The mother was wary of her own daughter.

Kathryn always felt uncomfortable, and she had received the news that the assistant of the previous head of the family had appeared.

Last night, Liberty also told her in person that the old assistant was nearly a hundred years old but was still alive and well, conscious, speaking clearly, and still remembering clearly what happened in the past.

Although he still has some illnesses, the old man has a miracle doctor and his apprentice taking care of him, so living to be a hundred years old should not be a problem.

Liberty only told her this much and nothing else.

Kathryn guessed that the old assistant had evidence, and also, why was the old assistant with those old seniors who were legendary in the martial arts world?

The butler said that the mother was in a bad mood after she came back and seemed very anxious.

Her mother's reaction gave Kathryn the real answer.

Her aunt, the previous head of the family, died at the hands of her mother. Otherwise, her mother wouldn't have been so anxious after learning the news about the old assistant.

There was also the mother's cruelty to Liberty. If her aunt had not died at her mother's hands, when her mother found her cousins, she would have been so excited and affectionate. How could she be like this now, so cold and indifferent and not interacting with them at all, with no family affection at all?

When Audrey first found out that Liberty and Serenity were her nieces, she was so excited. That was the correct way to celebrate the reunion of the sisters.

It was because of the silent answer from her mother that Kathryn was in a bad mood and did not go home. She used the excuse of being busy with work and lived with the company.

