

Chapter 840

840 THREE SERAFIMS (2)

Elder Rose had been observing the luna ever since they met in the gates. Her gaze was deep and she was intertwining her fingers on top of the table with her body leaned forward to get a better look of Iris.

On the other hand, Iris glanced briefly at Abby, who didn't seem to be interested to see her displaying her power.

They had made a deal with each other before, but as it turned out, what happened was out of their hand and there was no way to keep it as a secret anymore, since it would be ridiculous and more unbelievable if Iris denied her power now people had seen her and witnessed with their own eyes how strong her power was.

Without saying anything, Iris stood up and let out her power. It was as easy as breathing for her now.

The dining room was flooded with light, as the people from the Holy Kingdom were astounded by what Iris could do. They knew how the divine power was and what they felt from Iris was exactly that, if they could say, she had stronger divine power than Abby.

For a moment, they didn't know what to say and Abby could feel they glanced at her, as if asking how someone from this continent held the power of the Serafim? As if she could magically find the answer for the question www.NoLwOrM.com

Abby remained silence and for the first time, Liam stared at her, his gaze was complicated.

"There is no way this could happen..." Theother elder muttered to herself, as she watched the divine power that Iris displayed. She was Rose, the previous Serafim before Abby. She stepped down from her position when they figured out the sickly baby, who is no other than Abby was the next Serafim.

Now, Rose was over sixty five years old and she formally stepped down from her role ten years ago, which meant, Abby was formally introduced as the Serafim when she was only ten years old www.NoELwOrM.com

The twisted part of the whole thing was; Serafim Rose was Abby's mother, but she was more of a mentor for her than a mother and by time, Abby used to act around her as her disciple instead of her daughter.

The first time Abby was introduced with her role as the Serafim was when she was three years old.

Ever since then, Abby's life revolved around all the thing that related to the Serafim and her role. The responsibility on her shoulders and the expectation from the people around them.

Rose was a great Serafim, she led a great war fifty years ago, where their continent was attacked by a massive number of monsters, which led to the extinction of the salamander and that was around the time when Lu's soul used Haco as his vessel.

Rose had another daughter, Gabriel, which was Abby's older sister, but the age gap between them was too far, thus the two of them were not really close, because Gabriel could be mistaken as her mother instead. www.NoELwOrM.com

"How?" Rose stood up when the light gradually faded away and Iris was finished with her performance. "How can you do that?" she narrowed her eyes. The previous Serafim still looked very sharp, even though she was not young anymore.

Iris could see why people's expectation on Abby was very high, because even when Rose was no longer holding the title as the Serafim, her presence was very strong, seeing her figure alone would demand your utmost respect, she must be a queen, if she lived in this continent, or someone that you didn't want to mess with.

Therefore, Iris understood how much pressure Abby had to continue the legacy, since she was a contrast different from the previous Serafim.

"This will be a long story, please sit down," Iris said, she was not exaggerated when she told her this would be a long story, since she had to explain everything, not only about the first Serafim's life essence in her, but also about Lu's soul that resided within Cane and what she understood about Decratic.

Rose didn't immediately sit down, but when Xarex nodded, she sat down and didn't say anything, allowed Iris to speak.

The room fell into silence, while the rain started pouring down out there when the sound of it blended with Iris's soothing voice, telling her story.

It was not only what kind of step they would take next based on how the elders took their stance after hearing the story, but it was also how they would take the information and what kind of respond the elders had when they got the confirmation that Cane was the lycan and most of the story about this lycan during king Aeon's time was false.

Everyone's eyes were on her, but Iris was not having a hard time to elaborate everything, because what people didn't see was, Cane's hand that held hers under the table, gave her a courage she needed and lessened her anxiety whenever she became the center of attention, leaving Iris to focus on her story and him.

"This is crazy, this is crazy..." Bion muttered to himself over and over again when they finally managed to take down alpha Colter's warriors and ransacked Diandem pack.

It was not difficult, because the moment they managed to take down the gates and entered the pack, there was not much resistance from them, since they had been starving for days because they had emptied their food storage weeks ago.

The food in this pack was not enough to feed all alpha Colter's warriors, his magic users and the pack member of this pack.

www.NoELwOrM.com

"This... this is insane..." Bion wanted to vomit.

On the other side, Cezi had gagged and emptied his stomach to see the sight before him.

The reason why alpha Colter and the rest of the warriors managed to stay alive for weeks when their food storage had been emptied was because they consumed the only flesh, they could find...