Chapter 311 I Like Your Hot Temper

Shirley became even angrier and more irritable. She roared at the media and internet celebrities, “I said I was in a hurry. Are you blind? Get out of my way, or I will beat you up!”

These indecent reporters and internet celebrities who were blocked outside the club were trying to gain popularity. When they saw Shirley, they became even more excited and constantly consumed her patience, hoping that she would be as fierce as possible.

Shirley was blocked and couldn’t move an inch. She clenched her fists and prepared to start a fight.

A Maybach slowly drove over. The handsome man in a suit got out of the car under the escort of the security guards.

“You make things difficult for a weak woman. I feel ashamed of you. If you have any questions, just come to me directly.”

The man who spoke was none other than Antwan, the protagonist of today’s press conference held by the Stewart Group.

“It’s Antwan, the rising business leader!”

“It is said that he is about to take over the Stewart Group. This means that he is about to replace Braden and become the new leader of Seattle City!”

“Today, the news of Braden’s death will be announced. It is so shocking. It feels like the whole world is watching. Whoever gets this trending topic first can make a lot of money and retire!”

#

The group of people immediately changed their targets and surrounded Antwan.

The male internet celebrity who was slapped away by Shirley stood up and complained to the camera, “Is she a weak woman? I’ve never seen a weak woman who can send a man flying with a slap. She is a female Vajra!”

Shirley could finally breathe a sigh of relief. She felt that the air around her had become much fresher.

Shirley straightened her long hair. Without any expression on her cold and elegant face, she walked entrance of the hotel in “You called me a great benefactor. But you hid from me for four years. You made me worry about you for four years. Is your heart made of stone?”

Keith looked at Shirley, who was more charming, more attractive, and more unfathomable than before. He had mixed feelings.

He had once been fascinated with her and risked his life to save her. Even if there would be no chance for them to be together, she still occupied an important place in his heart.

For so many years, rather than saying that he and Braden had dug through the earth trying to find Shirley, it was more like his own obsession.

Braden had long given up on searching for Shirley, but Keith was like he had been bewitched and tried all kinds of methods to find Shirley.

Some days ago, when he had obtained Shirley had returned to Seattle City, he had already been looking forward to meeting her, but he had never had the chance.

He didn't think they would meet again on such an Keith lazily leaned back on the chair, listening to the useful information from Keith.

Keith crossed his legs, and looked at Antwan on the stage with a fake smile. "Who knows? I heard Braden say before that the Stewart Group seems to be invincible, but in fact, it has begun to rot. Various factions are fighting against each other, like what would happen in an ancient country when fighting for the throne. Maybe Antwan belongs to a faction. He is pushed out when Braden disappears. He is like the last emperor, who looked powerful but a puppet controlled by someone else. He can't withstand a single strike!"

Shirley and Keith also stopped chatting. They both raised their heads and stared at the stage.

Antwan was not flustered at all. He curved his thin lips and bent down to give an invitation to Kenny.

“Kenny, what you said makes sense. Although you only have shares in the Stewart Group and don't have real power, except for Grandpa, you are the oldest in the Stewart family. Since you have also appeared, this seat is definitely suitable for you.”

Kenny didn't want to pretend to be kind to Antwan. He directly said in front of all the media, “Do you think I only care about the seat? How many shameful things have you done when the Stewart Group is in chaos? If it were in ancient times, you would be the thief who conspired to usurp the throne and be beheaded!”

“Kenny, I think you have misunderstood me.

When Braden was in trouble, the Stewart Group was in chaos without a leader. I rushed back from overseas to stabilize the company. As for the decision of the board of directors, they have considered it carefully. For the sake of the overall situation, I can only obey!”

Antwan spread out his hands, looking like he had been forced to do it.

Kenny originally restrained his temper, but after hearing that, he was furious. “You sly fellow. You are good at finding excuses. Tell me, who made the decision? I guess you must have spent all your money bribing them. Am I right?”

Antwan smiled and did not speak again. Instead, he looked at the several board members of the Stewart Group.

The oldest member of them was called Rodrigo Riddle.

Back then, his father had followed Jason and then had assisted Jason in setting up the Stewart Group. Rodrigo also joined the Stewart Group. He was one of the six major members of the board of directors. He had always been loyal to Braden and had an extremely high status.

But today, he acted out of character and said to Kenny, “Kenny, since you have already retired, how the Stewart Group will develop and who the leader will be are no longer for you to concern. You have plenty of shares anyway. Isn’t it good to receive dividends without doing anything?”

Everyone looked in the direction of the voice, and Shirley also looked in that direction.
She saw Braden's tall and straight figure walk into the venue with unhurried steps.
Originally, Antwan was the focus of attention, but when Braden appeared, he was immediately overshadowed. He and Braden were like a fish eye and a pearl. How ironic.
It was like a bomb exploded in the venue. The sound of the flashing lights and the shutter almost deafened people.

"How is this possible? Braden, didn't you..."

Antwan looked as if he had seen a ghost. His face was pale as he fell into his chair. He was no

The higher-ups and shareholders sitting at the side had complicated expressions. Some of them were happy, and some of them were anxious.

Those who had supported Antwan before sat straight against their seats. Cold sweat poured down their forehead, and they didn't dare to breathe loudly.

On the other hand, those who had defended Braden had tears welling up in their eyes.

"Mr. Stewart, we knew it. You are invincible. You are the sun that never falls. There was definitely

"Ms. Wilson, we all know that Mr. Parker of the Parker Group is the president of Korita Group. I heard that you have recently replaced him and taken over his position. Since you have a special relationship with Mr. Stewart, do you have any plans for the future? Will the two big groups compete with each other or forge partnerships?"

The person who interviewed Shirley was a reporter from the official financial channel, and the question was very sharp.

Shirley looked resentful and sulky because she kept holding grudges against Braden. Now she was glaring at Braden.

However, compared to her ruthlessness, Braden looked very calm. He looked at her as if he was looking at others. He showed no emotion.

Others thought Shirley and Braden might have a special relationship, but they were not a patch on partners.

Even if Braden didn't say a word, it was enough to destroy Shirley's self-esteem!

Shirley clenched her fingers and sneered, "For business, it all depends on benefits which decide who are our enemies and who are our friends. If Mr. Stewart can help me make money, we can pursue win-win cooperation. If not, we'll be rivals sooner or later."

As soon as Shirley said this, the crowd burst into laughter.

Keith, who was beside her, pulled the corner of her clothes and whispered, "Shirley, we have to keep a low profile. That is the Stewart Group! Korita Group is no match for that. How dare you challenge them? Are you telling jokes to liven everyone up?"

Others were saying hard things about Shirley. Some said she was too arrogant. Some said she was mad to challenge the Stewart Group.

A manager of the Stewart Group also held back his laughter and said to Shirley, "Ms. Wilson, although you are a little special since you're the ex-wife of Mr. Stewart, for our business, the Stewart Group will probably never cooperate with a small company like Korita Group. It's not a match for our company. So don't mention whether we will cooperate or compete. After all, there is no connection between our two companies."

Chapter 316 Don't Want Me To Die

In the men's toilet, several men standing in front of the urinals were happily peeing when they suddenly saw a woman barging in. They were shocked and covered their crotches with their hands.

"You..."

Shirley was so angry that she shouted at the men arrogantly, "What are you looking at? Haven't you seen a woman enter the men's toilet before? Get out if you can't stand it!"

These men with decent status probably had never seen such a valiant woman. They quickly pulled up the zipper and ran out.

Only in the innermost position, Braden stood tall and straight, like a cold and perfect sculpture.

Even when he stood in front of the urinal, he was still so superior and unattainable.

Braden didn't pee. At that moment, he stared coldly and sharply at Shirley. "What's the matter?"

His words made Shirley even more furious. Shirley looked like a pufferfish that was about to explode in anger. She asked coldly, "What's the matter? Braden, why are you pretending to be ignorant here? You know what I came here for."

Braden said indifferently, "If you have anything to say, just say it. There are so many reporters here.

"You have chased me to the men's room. It is rude."

Braden was too calm. It seemed that he was mocking Shirley's childishness and madness.

Shirley clenched her fists and wished she could punch the man in front of her!

Shirley thought, how could there be such a heartless man in this world? Is he a robot? He is so ruthless.

Shirley said, "Shouldn't you explain to me what is going on?"

Shirley resisted the desire to beat Braden and tried to communicate calmly with Braden.

"I don't think there's anything to explain."

With an anxious look on her face, Shirley felt extremely guilty. She raised her fist and continued to warn, "Antwan, stop talking nonsense!"

Braden said coldly. "Leave her alone. Tell me everything you know."

With a mischievous smile on his face, Antwan said meaningfully, "Braden, I remember that your marriage has lasted for four years, right? It has been a long time in current society. Do you think you know her well enough? Do you know what her real personality is?"

Braden's face darkened. His voice was as cold as ice. What do you want to say? Don't beat around the bush with me. I don't have much time to chat with you."

Antwan said, "Just answer my question. Do you know her well? What kind of person is she in your eyes?"

Antwan's words made Braden and Shirley very irritable.

However, to satisfy his curiosity, Braden was patient and said. "Objectively speaking, as a wife, she is qualified. She is dignified, broad-minded, gentle, and virtuous. Chapter 318 Win His Career And Lose His Woman

So only Shirley and Antwan were left standing in the men's toilet. The atmosphere was a bit embarrassing.

Antwan was like an evil who had achieved his goal. He revealed an evil and childish smile. Antwan said to Shirley, "Look, it's not a loss for you to leave your ex-husband. What he wants is just a tool to make him look good. He doesn't like your real color at all. He doesn't understand you at all and doesn't want to understand you. This is a failure for a woman."

"Thank you for making the thing clear to me!"

Shirley couldn't help but roll her eyes at Antwan. She said sharply, "You'd better care about yourself when you have time. You're so stupid. You've been fooled all the time. You are cleared out of the company, but you're still showing off here!"

Antwan was not angry at all. He approached Shirley and asked in a low voice, "Shirley, are you worried about me?"

Shirley rolled her eyes even more fiercely. She raised her leg and stomped on the man. "Worried my ass!"

Then, she raised her chin like a proud swan and left coolly.

Antwan looked at Shirley's back.

He raised his eyebrows slightly with an evil smile.

Antwan thought, how arrogant! I like her!

At the same time, a large number of men who wanted to go to the bathroom were waiting outside the door, many of whom were well-known reporters.

Therefore, all kinds of gossip about Shirley began to spread around the city.

Some read, "Shirley, Braden's ex-wife, is reluctant to part with her lover and ex-lover. The three of them gathered in the men's toilet to do something shameless!"

Some read, "Mr. Stewart fought for his ex-wife with his cousin. In the end, Mr. Stewart regretfully got out. He won his career but lost his woman!"

There was an outrageous one. "Antwan bravely pursued his ex-sister-in-law, and he has succeeded in proposing in the men's room!"

Shirley was driving when she saw the astonishing titles that Nancy sent her. Shirley was so angry that she almost crashed into another car.

Shirley said, "Are those reporters crazy? Their imagination is so great!"

The teacher looked a little embarrassed. She looked left and right and said tactfully, "Miss, don't worry. Nothing will happen to the two children. They will go back when the time comes. As for the person who took them away... Forgive me for not daring to reveal his identity."

When Shirley heard this, she was still calm. She just clenched her fists silently and sneered, "It seems that this person is important. He openly took my children. Yet as the mother, I have no right to know who he is."

"He's indeed powerful. In Seattle City, few people dare to cross him, so..."

The teacher paused for a few seconds before revealing more useful information. She whispered, "The two children call him daddy sweetly. They are very affectionate to him, and he... is related to the Stewart family."

"Related to the Stewart family?"

Shirley frowned slightly, and her heart skipped a beat. She pondered over the teacher's hint.

The answer seemed clear now.

The man was a big shot in Seattle City. The kids called him daddy, and he was related to the Stewart family. Wasn't it clearly Braden?

No wonder he spoke in a weird tone in the men's room today, saying that she kept a big secret from him... It turned out he already knew about the existence of the two children!

It made sense. During this period of time, she had thought Braden was dead, so she hadn't concealed the two children's existence.

In addition, previously, when Bennett came to Braden's territory to make a scene, the kid must have attracted his attention. Braden only needed to investigate it to know that Bennett was his son.

Maybe he had met Bennett several times in private. Bennett had said that he wanted to fix Shirley up with a Seattle City famous chef. Was he referring to Braden?

everyone else in the Stewart family support you two to get married again!”

“Y-you misunderstood!”

Shirley blushed. She swore anxiously, “I didn’t come to marry him. I have already broken all ties with him. I’d rather be alone for the rest of my life than marry him!”

Everyone was taken aback, and the scene was extremely awkward.

Braden's lips curved into a cold smile. The look in his eyes was indifferent, and he remained silent.

Howard asked, "Shirley, if you aren't here to be back together with Braden, then why are you here?"

Shirley bit her lip, unable to say it out loud.

She wasn't sure if the Stewart family knew about the existence of the kids. If they knew nothing, wouldn't she be asking for trouble if she revealed it like this?

"This is a private matter between him and me. I can't talk about it in front of everyone.

Shirley stared at Braden and said, "Mr. Stewart, can we talk privately for a few minutes?"

With his chin up as arrogantly as before, Braden said coldly. "Since we're divorced and you don't wanna remarry me, it's better to keep a distance between us. People talk, and gossip will have a bad impact on my image."

As soon as he finished speaking, Tracy slapped the back of his head hard and snapped, "Silly boy. what are you pretending for? In the past four years, you've been missing her too much to sleep at night. You cried so loudly the domestic workers thought the house was haunted. Now that Shirley
