

41. Graduation Day

Evelyn

I stared at the ceiling of the bedroom as i laid on my bed. Today was my graduation day, last night i was talking to melissa who kept rambling about how excited she was and how her family was so proud of her.

I didn't realized when i started to cry while listening to melissa. She was feeling completely opposite to me, she was so happy and i was sad and scared .

Come on cheer upmy subconscious said 'how can i' i replied. Its your day, don't let those storms ruin it,ame my subconscious reply.

"My day" i whispered to myself, a small smile forming on my face. I got up from the bed, opened the closet and pulled out a dress i bought from the mall, it was melissa's choice.

I did my makeup and a er that brushed my hair.

I bent down and wore my golden heels. I picked up my purse and graduation gown.

I went downstairs and saw my father waiting for me. He looked at me and smiled. "You look beautiful princess, I'm so proud of you" he said with a huge smile. "Thank you dad" i replied and hugged him.

"Come on lets go" he said and i nodded. We headed towards the car and settled inside. Dad was driving while i looked outside.

I was trying to stay positive but there was this one thing that was little unsettling for me, i didn't heard anything from the storms today, though i was glad about it but it was also making me anxious as if something bad is going to happen.

I took a deep breathe and turned towards my father. A smile formed on my face looking at him, he was completely healthy now and i was more than happy about it.

Evelyn got out o the car with henry, she closed the car door when suddenly her gaze fell on some black suited men. They looked like bodyguards.

Evelyn was still looking at those men when henry called her. "What is it" henry asked "nothing dad, lets go" she said shrugging.

They made their way towards auditorium. "Evie" called melissa who was standing outside the auditorium with brendon. Henry told her to go with them as he went inside.

"You look bomb" melissa chirped, evelyn giggled "thank you, you look beautiful" she said and turnes towards brendon "hey brendon" evelyn said. "Hy evie" he said.

Evelyn wore her graduation gown and cap and so did melissa and brendon. "Lets go" said brendon and together they went inside the auditorium, they sat beside their fellow classmates.

She looked at everyone's smiling faces, laughing with their friends, all excited for their special day. She felt an extreme pang of guilt, because of her kyle wasn't able to see that day.

She went to church few days ago and begged for forgiveness from god. She blamed herself. Storms killed an innocent human and they felt no remorse but whom was she kidding they probably have killed hundreds of people before and how can devils have any emotions.

Her chain of thoughts broke when melissa nudged her. She looked at her.

"I have heard that some famous people are coming today to present our certificates" melissa said "yeah i heard about that too" brendon said, evelyn raised an eyebrow "really, who?" She asked.

"Don't know their names but they're definitely some big shot. There were so many guards for their security" melissa said. "Wait, there are more than one person?" Evelyn asked "yeah, ashley was telling me" said melissa.

Evelyn frowned at this new found information. "But the principal didn't announced anything about this" evelyn asked. "Yeah i was kinda surprised when i heard about this today only, principal didn't said anything. Weird" said brendon.

"Come on guys why are you fussing over it so much, a er all in some time we're going to see them anyways" melissa said to which evelyn hummed and brendon nodded.

The principal entered the stage "hello students, today is a huge day of your lives. You guys are graduating and then you all are going to start college, a new chapter of your lives. And i wish nothing but the best for you all" he said, everyone clapped and cheered.

"Now, today we have some special people with us who're going to present you your certificate. We're really honored by their presence, they are very influential people and a huge name in the business world. Please give a huge round of applause for storm brothers" the principal said and the auditorium filled with gasps and clapping. Some girls squealed in excitement.

Evelyn's eyes widened in shock.

Wow, they really don't wanna leave you aloneher subconscious said.

Evelyn turned around to look for henry but he was already looking at her. Both father and daughter had a look of shock on their faces.

The trio entered and the auditorium filled with the sounds of clapping. But they were looking for only one person.

Their eyes scanned the whole crowd trying to find their babygirl. Some girls were winking and biting their lips in a seductive manner while looking at them.

"If only i could snap their necks" elijah whispered referring to those girls "feeling is mutual brother" ace whispered back, their faces void of any emotions. Noah smirked at his brothers remarks.

If they still were those old storms then they would have flirted back to those girls or maybe would've fucked them too but now, they had their eyes only on their babygirl. The only girl they wanted was evelyn, their evelyn.

Other than evelyn if any other woman would even look at their way the storms gets angry, really angry.

They were looking here and there until their eyes landed on her small frame. Their dark brown orbs met her silver ones, they felt pride surging inside them seeing her in that graduation gown. They smiled widely shocking the students as well as the principal.

Storms stood in middle of stage and said "We're glad that we could be the part of this special day of all of your lives and we wish you all the best for your future"

The principal started taking the names of students and they went to the stage where the storms presented them their certificates.

"Brendon Parker" it was brendon's turn, evelyn and melissa clapped happily. He went towards stage and shake hands with the trio "good job boy" said ace referring to evelyn and he understood very well "thank you sir" he replied.

A er some time evelyn's name came "Evelyn Winters" storm's eyes lit up. Evelyn took a small breathe and went towards the stage.

Their gazes remained fixed on her, taking in every inch of her body. She stood in front of them. Staring at each other, the brothers forgot everything about the other people in auditorium, they wanted to keep staring at those silver eyes.

They gave evelyn's certificate, touching her small hand "congratulations babygirl" they said lowly in unison, evelyn forced a smile "thank you" she said and shake hands with them. The trio took their "sweet time" in releasing evelyn's hand.

Evelyn hurriedly got o the stage and sighed in relief.

"Say cheese" said brendon as he clicked evelyn and melissa's pictures. Everyone were taking selfies or pictures with their friends and families.

Evelyn took pictures with henry and her friends. A er that she said her goodbyes to melissa and brendon. She felt little sad that she won't be able to see both of them regularly, they both were practically family to evelyn.

"Come on princess" said henry and evelyn nodded. The father daughter duo were talking happily about other stu , he didn't mentioned anything about the storms which she was glad about.

Henry and evelyn were walking towards their car when suddenly they stopped dead in their tracks. Storms were standing beside henry's car. Samuel, jack and chase as usual standing at a distance.

The trio smiled widely seeing evelyn coming, they took long strides towards her and engulfed her in a tight hug, the brothers smiled in content a er breathing in her sweet scent and a er some time they pulled away.

"We're proud of you babygirl" elijah said kissing her forehead, noah kissed her cheek and ace placed a so kiss on the top of her head.

"Thank you" evelyn said smiling weakly. Henry's jaw clenched but there was nothing he could do stop them. He felt utterly miserable.

"We're taking you out to celebrate" elijah said smiling. Evelyn looked at storms "um a-actually i-i can't go, me and d-dad." henry saw her hesitation and cut her o "we have already made plans of lunch" he said.

The trio was actually regretting not killing henry that day. They hated this fact, that there was another man in evelyn's life other then them even if it was her father.

They decided not to spoil their moods by arguing "that's ok, we'll go for dinner tonight then" said elijah "ok" she replied.

Evelyn licked her dry lips thinking that what'll happen tonight. Though they said it was just dinner but with storms everything was unpredictable.

To be continued...

Please vote and follow